DEPOSITS IN DISTRICT ARE UNPRECEDENTED; STATE BANK AID NEAR

Merchants Report Upward Swing In Business.

PLANS BEGUN TO OPEN REST

Conservators for 13 Institutions Are Appointed.

By DANIEL R. MAHER.

The task of restoring to normalcy the 13 District banks which have not yet been licensed to resume usual operations was started last night by conservators at the close of the greatest day in local financial history, marked by an unprecedented flow of currency into licensed banks.

Though the assets of the unlicensed banks are temporarily stagnated, the conservators are awaiting authorization to begin such operations permitted under the emergency banking bill.

The reopening of the 20 banks for all usual operations signalized a new day of optimism and confidence for depositors, who returned to the vaults of those licensed banks an amount conservatively estimated at $10,000,000 more than the total deposits of March 3. This sum is more than half of the total withdrawals made during the two-week period of hysteria which preceded the presidential proclamation.

Trade on Uptrend.

The shuffle of bills and the clink of the coins poured across the receiving tellers' windows reverberated in the trade houses of the city where business was generally reported on the up trend, and likewise struck a responsive chord in the minds of depositors who heard a new call of confidence.

The confidence of Treasury Department officials in the administrative ability of District bank executives was reflected in the selection of the men who will act as conservators of the banks which have not yet been licensed.

List of Conservators.

The conservators named for the respective banks are:

John Poole, president of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.

Joshua Evans, jr., president of the District National Bank.

F. C. Ockershausen, a national examiner, at the Franklin National Bank.

John C. Walker, president of the Chevy Chase Savings Bank.

A. O. Wharton, vice president of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank.

G. F. Hoover, vice president of the Northeast Savings Bank.

E. L. Norris, vice president of the

(Associated Press.)

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin said in a statement yesterday that the appointment of conservators for banks of high repute did not mean necessarily that they were in difficulties.

"There are a lot of complications, some of them concerning affiliate enterprises, which make it impractical for banks to open to the full extent," he said.

"It is for the purpose of insuring that the banks will be put in apple-pie order, pending reorganization or other necessary processes, that conservators in many cases are named."

INCOME TAX FILING DEADLINE EXTENDED

Returns Must Be Made by March 31; 6 Per Cent Interest Slated.

(United Press.)

The deadline for filing income tax returns was extended from March 15 to March 31 yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau, acting on a Treasury Department decision. Those who take advantage of the rule to defer filing their return must pay interest of 6 per cent per annum on the first quarterly installment from March 15.

The decision was made as long lines of harried taxpayers besieged the office of collectors of internal revenue throughout the country seeking to get their returns, held up by the national banking holiday, into the offices before the stroke of midnight tonight.

While no official had any additional comment upon their relaxation of the stringent rules, the Treasury has been bombarded with requests that some action be taken to defer payment of the tax until citizens whose money was tied up in banks could make arrangements to meet the amount due. Officials had declined to relax the regulations requiring the filing and payment of at least one-fourth of the tax today until the order was issued last night.

The instructions that went forth

Hot Period Routed By Thunderstorm

Parks Are Crowded With Temperature at 74 in Afternoon.

A sudden thunderstorm descended on the city shortly before midnight in what Weather Bureau officials termed an unusual occurrence. On only a few other occasions have electrical storms been experienced in March. A sharp fall in the temperature was phophesied before dawn.

Winter garb went into the discard and spring attire was much in evidence yesterday and early last night, as Washingtonians flocked out of doors to enjoy balmy breezes which swept across the city.

United States park police reported a sudden traffic increase in Potomac and Rock Creek parks shortly after dark.

Yesterday's high mark was 74 degrees at 4 p. m.

Roosevelt Drops Cotton Bill After Pocket Veto

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt has decided against signing the Smith cotton pool bill—pocket vetoed by President Hoover—holding among other things that the constitutional questionability of his right to do so would bring on legal complications.

In authoritative quarters interested in the passage of the bill, it was stated last night that Mr. Roosevelt might combine some features of the emergency cotton relief plan in a general farm program he is expected to send to Congress shortly.

Man Gets Life Term In Two Fire Deaths

Kansas City, March 14 (A.P.).—Maurice C. Marshall, 21, pleaded guilty this afternoon to the murder of two firemen who lost their lives in the burning of the Kansas-Missouri Grain Elevator here February 18, 1932, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Marshall previously confessed setting fire to the elevator so that he might get a job helping rebuild it.

Bill Is Passed by Senate; Would Allow Loans.

RECESS NEAR FOR CONGRESS

Stock Exchange Will Resume Today; Others Due.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Roosevelt's emergency banking legislation was subjected to determined attack in the Senate yesterday as that body approved a measure to make all State banks and trust companies eligible for Federal Reserve loans.

The measure, introduced on Monday by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, would, in effect extend to the weaker State banks the emergency privileges of the Federal Reserve bank note circulation authorized in the President's bill last week. It would not, however, subject the State banks to the rules and regulations of the Federal Reserve system.

As regards the projected emergency money provided in last week's law, yesterday's amendment would extend valuable Federal Reserve privileges to nonmember banks without extending the responsibilities of Federal Reserve membership.

Subject to Approval.

All such advances would be subject to the approval of the several stock banking departments.

Although the Robinson bill was passed by the Senate late yesterday afternoon, it was not formally transmitted to the House. Indications were that it was being held up by the Secretary of the Senate, at the suggestion of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, for possible reconsideration today.

The Robinson amendment was designed to placate Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, who sought to force such a revision of the emergency law last Thursday. A considerable group of Senate defenders of the State banks demanded the action yesterday. They charged that enforcement of the original law would bring disaster to many country banks.

To Await Insistence.

In reporting the amendment yesterday members of the Senate Banking Committee said the bill would not be called up until Senator Robinson insisted.

An amendment to the Robinson bill from the floor authorized the Recon-

Tax Evasion Laid To Political Boss

John Lazia, of Kansas City, Is Bonded; Prosecutor to Ask Indictment.

Kansas City, March 14 (A.P.).—John Lazia, powerful political figure in Kansas City's turbulent North Side and once indicted but never tried on charges of conspiring to violate national prohibition laws, today was charged with failure to make a Federal income tax return in 1929.

T. J. Layson, assistant United States district attorney, who filed today's charge, said others would follow. The Government computed the 1929 tax due as $11,167.84.

Layson tonight announced intention of asking the Federal grand jury in April to return felony indictments against Lazia, charging him with evading payment of income taxes for 1928, 1929 and 1930. Lazia, head of the North Side Democratic Club, was released on $1,500 bonds.

Chinese Troops Halt Uprising of 50,000

Canton, China, March 14 (A.P.).—An official report today said Government troops had suppressed an uprising of 50,000 natives, who had been massacring persons near Kwangsi and Kweichon in Hupeh Province and in Hunan Province.

The natives, it was alleged, had been supplied with arms by Reds.

SENATE LIMITS ECONOMY BILL DEBATE TODAY

Harrison Sees Passage of Power Grant Plan in Afternoon.

NIGHT SESSION HELD; AMENDMENTS VOTED

War Disabled Kept on Rolls; Reductions Made Safe From Judgments.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Failing in an extended night session effort to reach a final vote on the President's $500,000,000 economy bill, the Senate last night, with the bill still far from passage, agreed to limit debate on the far-reaching cuts when third day consideration of the measure is resumed today.

Just prior to the agreement, two amendments were attached to the bill. One would keep on the rolls all Spanish-American and World War veterans with disabilities incurred in line of duty. Another exempts court judgments to veterans from economy act deductions.

The debate limitation agreed to last night will restrict every senator to 30 minutes on the bill and 15 minutes on each amendment. Senate Finance Chairman Pat Harrison thinks this will force a final vote on the measure late this afternoon. He is assured of enough votes to pass the measure.

La Follette to Fight.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr. (Republican), Wisconsin, will lead a fight today to exempt low-salaried Federal workers from pay cuts under the bill. He has an amendment to exempt all Federal salaries under $1,000 from operation of the act. Lining up behind him, Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Wisconsin, yesterday launched the opening argument for the low-wage exemption.

Recess was taken last night when Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), Washington, failed to agree with Senator George McGill (Democrat), Kansas, on an amendment to pro-

HOUSE PASSES 3.2 BEER BILL; VOTE IS 316-97

Senate Committee Meets Today to Consider Measure.

ROBINSON FORESEES SUFFICIENT SUPPORT

238 Democrats, 73 in G.O.P. and 5 Farmer-Laborites Answer With "Ayes."

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Under the driving force of Speaker Henry T. Rainey and his Democratic lieutenants, the House yesterday passed a bill legalizing manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer. The vote was 316 to 97.

The same spur of achievement which prompted the House apparently shall prompt the Senate and passage of the beer bill by that body today would not be surprising. Senate Democratic leaders predict its approval and its signature by President Franklin D. Roosevelt before the end of the week.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, has called a meeting of the Finance Committee for 10 a. m. today to consider the measure. The committee will quickly make a favorable report and as soon as the economy measure is acted on it will be brought up on the Senate floor.

Predicts Quick Action.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, party leader, predicted quick action, declaring that the Democrats had enough votes to pass it.

The bill becomes a law 15 days after the President signs it. There is no doubt he will sign it as soon as he gets it. He asked for its enactment in a special message of two sentences, comprising 72 words, sent to Congress on Monday.

The rapid action of the House on the measure continued the almost dizzy pace which the new Democratic administration, both executive and legislative branches, has set since it assumed the duties of directing the Government. The present Congress, still only a few days old, has had a succession of tense and dramatic moments through which it has written something of a new record for close cooperation between the Congress

40 Killed and 70 Hurt In Mexico Theater Fire

Guadalajara, Mexico, March 14 (A.P.).—Forty persons were killed and 70 were gravely injured last night in a theater fire at the town of Ahualuloo, not far from here. A high-tension wire was short-circuited, causing a fire in the Hidalgo Theater while a motion-picture performance was in progress.

The panic-stricken audience stampeded for the doors and 20 were trampled to death. Twenty others were electrocuted when the wire dropped across a hand rail along the front of the gallery.

Diplomatic Schnapps Make Port Here Safely by Truck

Zeal of Customs Official Gives State Department Headache; "Immune" Liquor Taken Off Ship Bound for Baltimore Under "Coastwise" Law.

The first of an argosy of diplomatic liquor arrived here yesterday destined for the parched palates of the Peruvian Ambassador and the Swedish and Irish Ministers after an uneventful trip by motor truck from New York under official protection and approval of the United States Government. Another motorcade will start from New York today bearing some 400 cases of wines, champagnes, liquors and whiskies for the Italian Ambassador and the Roumanian, Nicaraguan, Norwegian, Greek, Danish and Lithuanian Ministers. The entire value of this cargo is believed to be more than $40,000, bootleg prices. However, under excise exemptions to the envoys, the cost to them is only about $5,000.

The first motor truck started from New York Monday morning after the word had been passed to the New Jersey State Constabulary, the Philadelphia Director of Public Safety and the Pennsylvania and Maryland State police by officials here. A special representative of the Irish Free State Legation rode with the truck and held in his hand the sealed and beribboned "laissez-passer" of the Department of State. As the truck entered the successive zones of the various States, it was met by several motorcycle policemen who escorted the truck with proper ceremony.

This courtesy by the State and Treasury departments was the result of the action of a bureaucratic official in the Customs Service at New York. He is believed to be the same man who seized and held copies of Vatican paintings recently on the ground that they were "obscene."

When the good ship Winona County from Liverpool to Baltimore stopped off in New York this same official gasped when he read her manifest. He ordered the entire cargo of diplomatic liquor moved from the hold and stored in the New York Custom House before he would allow the ship to proceed. Then he telegraphed Washington for official approval. Instead his action brought a headache to the officials of the State and Treasury departments. A group of indignant diplomats waited on the Undersecretary of State William Phillips, and pointed out that their bank accounts had been held up in the

Roosevelt Will Seek Arms Shipments Ban

Step Held Necessary to Insure Success of Other Powers' Embargoes on Materials to Nations Violating Paris Pact.

(Associated Press.)

The great nations of the world, with the United States in the forefront, were moving last night toward concerted action to put teeth into the Pact of Paris by agreeing to deny the implements of war to nations violating its solemn pledge against the use of force in settling international disputes.

This broad and significant plan, with its direct bearing upon the peace of the world, was disclosed as the Roosevelt administration determined to ask the present session of Congress to grant the President authority to forbid the shipment of arms or munitions to any nation on the globe.

At the same time it was learned that Great Britain, France and other influential members of the family of nations have sounded out the American Government on its attitude toward using governmental control of the shipment of arms as a means of enforcing the Pact of Paris.

The attitude of the United States toward not only participating but also taking a leading part in such a move is best summed up in a statement by Franklin D. Roosevelt shortly before he became President, in which he said:

"I have long been in favor of the use of embargoes on arms to belligerent nations, especially to nations which are guilty of making an attack on other nations—that is, against aggressor nations."

American diplomatic circles felt last night that one of the definite accomplishments to be salvaged from the fading disarmament conference may well be an agreement upon control of the sale of arms abroad by direct action of governments.

Just how an arms embargo could be employed to deal, for instance, with the warlike activity of Japan against China has not been decided and probably will come up for discus-

DISTRICT BEER VOTE SOUGHT THIS WEEK

Palmisano Offers Bill to Remove Doubt Regarding Legality Here.

Passage of the national beer bill by the House yesterday, and its prospective early approval by the Senate, left the District beer situation in an uncertain position, with legislators and students of law at loggerheads over the legality of local beer if the House bill is enacted.

Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride believes the Sheppard law, the District's dry act, was repealed by enactment of the Volstead act, and to determine this once and for all, a case is now pending before District Supreme Court.

But the measure passed by the House yesterday contains language that might be construed as extending local dry enforcement legislation, except where it has been specifically repealed. In the light of this language, the corporation counsel's office last night was studying the bill to see how it might affect Mr. Bride's earlier construction.

Meanwhile Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, yesterday introduced a 3.2 per cent District beer bill that would remove all doubt as to the local situation if it can be passed this session.

Both Palmisano and Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, who sponsored it last session, believe it should be enacted at any cost to clear up the confusion. An attempt will be made to get it through this week.

Questioned as to its prospects of passage, House Democratic Leader Byrns and Speaker Rainey yesterday were both of the opinion that House right of way can be made for it, now that the national bill is out of the way.

House action, however, must wait on a report from the House District Committee, and that body can not be formally organized until Republican members have been designated. House Republican Leader Snell said he will act at once so as not to hold up the committee. Chairman Mary T. Norton and Representative Palmisano conferred yesterday with a view to action this week. The bill was favorably reported last session by the local committee.

Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, earlier told the House he is convinced sale of beer in the District would be sanctioned under the bill passed yesterday. He conferred on the question with Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon West.

Brownsville, Tex., March 14 (A.P.).—Democrats of the Fifteenth Texas Congressional District will go to the polls tomorrow to choose their nominee to oppose Carlos Watson, of Brownsville in the general election April 22 to select a successor to Vice President John N. Garner.

The run-off primary will find two Rio Grande Valley attorneys opposed —Milton West, of Brownsville, and Gordon Griffin, of McAllen.

FALSE ENTRIES LAID TO J. W. HARRIMAN

New York Bank Chairman Is Placed Under Arrest in Sickbed.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Joseph W. Harriman, a New York banker for nearly half a century, was arrested today on a Federal warrant charging misuse of funds of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., which he founded in 1912.

Harriman, who is critically ill with coronary thrombosis, was arraigned in his sick bed in his seventh-floor apartment off Fifth avenue and formally held for a hearing under $25,000 bond posted by a surety company.

A deputy marshal sent to the apartment this afternoon with a warrant refrained from serving it when physicians said the action might seriously affect the banker, but later Raymond J. Mulligan, United States marshal, served it himself with two physicians in attendance.

United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill then went to the sickroom to accept the bail.

George Z. Medalie, United States attorney, said bank examiners uncovered the alleged misuse of $1,393,000 in an investigation which was started a year ago and which had no connection with the recent bank holiday. It was only a coincidence, Medalie said, that evidence on which action might be taken was assembled at this time.

The bank did not receive a license from the Federal Reserve Bank to reopen Monday with other banks in the city, but was placed in the hands of a conservator under the new emergency banking law.

The conservator is Henry E. Cooper, president of the institution. Harriman, formerly president, is chairman of the board of directors.

The Harriman National Bank and Trust Co., at 527 Fifth avenue, reported total assets of $33,535,973 last December 31, and deposits of $30,168,221. The capital was $2,000,000, surplus $500,000 and undivided profits $440,991.

Nashville Is Hard Hit by Terrific Storm.

CAPITOL FEELS TWISTER FURY

Damage in Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky Is Less Severe.

Nashville, Tenn., March 14 (A.P.).—Eighteen persons were killed and more than 150 injured in a tornado that struck first in the Arkansas delta late today and then swept up the Tennessee-Kentucky line tonight.

Property damage was heavy, especially here, the largest city the twister struck. It hit such important centers as this capital city, Kingsport and Harrogate, Tenn., and Caruthersville, Mo.

Hailstorms followed in the wake of the wind. The tornado made a bee line from the Caruthersville section to the Kentucky coal fields, across about 300 miles of thickly populated country. It apparently blew itself out in the hills of Tennessee and Kentucky.

List of Casualties.

The casualty list:

Kingsport, Tenn.—Dead: Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Calhoun, Emmett Meadow, Tate Crockett, 4-year-old Crockett child; Dewey Lawson. Injured, 23 persons, 2 critically.

Nashville—Dead: Mrs. T. L. Bonderman, M. B. Lanier, Margaret Johnson. Injured, more than one hundred.

Pruden, Tenn.—Dead: Homer Keith, Mrs. Homer Keith, their three children; a Mr. Mason. Injured—More than 20.

Oswego, Tenn.—Dead: Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hollers.

Harrogate, Tenn.—Dead: Two children of Mr. Othneil Cadle. Injured—Two persons.

Lepanto, Ark.—Injured: Five-year-old daughter of Joe Truelove, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCain, Rufe McCain.

Kennett, Mo.—Injured: Mrs. Rance James.

Nashville in Darkness.

Scores were injured as the tornado twisted through the delta country of Arkansas and Missouri and then made a bee line for the mountains.

Hail fell in its wake.

This city, the largest it struck, was plunged into darkness as the wind tore over the surrounding fringe of hills and swept through the eastern section of the city. First reports said at least 100 persons were taken to hospitals here.

Many homes in East Nashville were blown down. Parts of two downtown buildings caved in and other structures in the business section of the city were damaged.

Considerable damage was done to the tenth floor of the Cotton States Building, where the Veterans' Bureau has headquarters.

Large Cities Hit.

Windows on the west side of the historic Capitol—perched on a hill that overlooks the city and the Cumberland Valley—were blown away. A

PARK SAVINGS BANK OFFICIAL IS SUICIDE

Robert S. Stunz's Death Is Laid to Worry Over Depression.

Worry over general financial conditions was ascribed as the reason for the suicide yesterday morning of Robert S. Stunz, 45, executive vice president and director of the Park Savings Bank.

Mr. Stunz fired two bullets into his temple in the basement of his home, 1150 Kalmia road northwest, yesterday morning. Officials of the bank said that Mr. Stunz had been obviously worried recently and believe that concern over the depression became too much of a burden.

The vice president was last seen at his bank Monday. He showed worry at this time and gave every impression of being in a depressed state of mind, his associates said.

Director Arrives at Home.

Mr. Stunz took his life while his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Stunz, was taking their 6-year-old son, Bobby, to the kindergarten of the Friends School. The house was empty at the time, the maid, Mary Lee, colored, arriving a few minutes after the shots were fired.

Prior to Mrs. Stunz's return from the school, Warren Spencer, a director of the Park Savings Bank, arrived at the house. He revealed later that Mr. Stunz had telephoned the bank and left word for him to call at his home immediately.

Concern over Mr. Stunz did not arise until after Mrs. Stunz returned home and his coat and hat were found. A search of the house was made at once, resulting in the discovery of the tragedy.

Mrs. Stunz became hysterical and was placed under the care of Dr. Wade H. Atkinson, of 1402 M street northwest, who is also a vice president of the Park Savings Bank. The child was placed in charge of a close friend of the family.

Bank Remains Closed.

A certificate of suicide was issued by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald after an investigation by Capt. Joseph Morgan, of the Sixth Precinct, and Detectives Sergts. Jerry Flaherty and William Liverman, of the homicide squad. No note was found.

Mr. Stunz fired both shots into his right temple with an ordinary revolver, according to Dr. MacDonald. He was found lying on a service bed in the basement. Windows were locked from the inside. Both bullets were recovered. One emerged near the left cheek bone, and the other from the left side of the head.

Mr. Stunz was a native of Baltimore. He had been associated with the Park Savings Bank for 23 years. The funeral services will be held tomorrow from his late residence, and interment will be made in Glenwood Cemetery.

The Park Savings Bank was one of those not licensed to open yesterday morning.

Business Group Urges Savings Bank Support

In a proclamation issued last night the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association asked the people of the community not to be led into "snap judgments and unfounded conclusions" concerning the bank's status because of the vice president's death.

"The suicide this morning of a bank official could not materially alter the status of his bank," the proclamation says. "That status, whatever it was, was safeguarded a week ago when President Roosevelt declared a bank holiday."

"The Park Savings Bank is not closed," the statement continues. "It was open today and operating under the usual Government-imposed restrictions that affect banks until they receive a license. Those of us who are its depositors should accord it patience a little longer."

A motion eulogizing Mr. Stunz and expressing the association's sympathy to the family was passed by the association.

ROOSEVELT TO ASK EMBARGO POWERS

sion by the League of Nations' "committee of 21" on the Far Eastern matter. The United States Monday agreed to cooperate with this group by having a representative sit in its sessions.

Great Britain only Monday withdrew an arms embargo it had declared against both China and Japan, apparently because other nations had failed to join and because of British public opinion that it failed of its purpose by hampering the Chinese rather than the Japanese with their already heavy armament supplies.

Should a general embargo on arms shipments to Japan only be declared on the ground that the league has found that nation to be the aggressor, grave complications might arise in case the Japanese navy should seize shipments consigned to China or sink the vessels carrying them, as Tokyo spokesmen have indicated.

Boycott of Japan.

In the case of Japan a more drastic action expected to be talked over when the league committee meets is a general refusal of the nations to buy goods from Japan. Experts believe that if Japan were unable to sell its products abroad it would have to stop fighting within two months.

In joining the league's discussions, however, the United States was careful to stipulate that it would not be bound by any of its decisions and would not vote.

The key nations in the momentous movement toward arms embargoes to back up the pact of Paris include those which manufacture most of the war materials produced in the world—the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Sweden. Japan also is a heavy producer.

Without concerted action the step is of comparatively little effect, as was indicated by the revocation of the premature British action.

Accordingly the administration feels that so long as the President lacks the authority to declare an arms embargo the United States will unwittingly block efforts of other powers to incorporate this potent device into the post-war machinery for peace.

It was shortly [illegible] the British arms embargo [illegible] the American [illegible] was asked by [illegible] here. [illegible] must [illegible] the [illegible]

Hundreds of Banks Near Capital to Reopen Today

Names and Locations of Maryland and Virginia Institutions Authorized to Resume Business This Morning Given.

Several hundred country banks throughout Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia which are members of the Federal Reserve System received their licenses last night from the Secretary of the Treasury to resume unrestricted operations at the regular hour this morning.

At the same time the State banking commissioners at Baltimore, Richmond and Charleston were working feverishly over the list of State banks which are not affiliated with the Federal Reserve System.

In theory these banks also must be authorized to resume by the Treasury at Washington, but, in fact, they are being approved by the various State banking departments.

Locations of Institutions.

The following list contains the names and locations of the Federal Reserve country banks which were authorized last night by the Richmond Reserve Bank to resume this morning.

The State banks approved for resumption by the various State commissioners will be published as they are announced.

Late last night it appeared that some of the State lists would not be available before early morning.

PRINTING OF CRISIS MONEY IS REAL TASK

$2,000,000,000 Ordered to Require 186,288,000 New Notes.

(Associated Press.)

For anyone interested in making a lot of money quickly—in fact, $2,000,000,000 in new bank notes—the Federal Bureau of Printing and Engraving its willing to tell how it is done.

The bureau announced last night that by working on a 24-hour shift it is gradually reaching its peak production. By next week, it said, 6,000,000 new notes will be turned out every full day, in order to meet demands under the currency expansion provisions of the emergency banking act. Even so, the bureau concedes, it is going to be some job. Its first order under the new act was for $2,000,000,000, or a total of 186,288,000 individual bank notes.

By dint of starting its preliminary preparations for printing before the act actually was signed by President Roosevelt, the bureau said, it was possible to make the first shipment of notes 24 hours after the first order was received. The notes went to the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

"There was not sufficient time to engrave new dies and make new plates for the printing of the Federal Reserve Bank notes," the statement said. "The standard national bank currency, on which the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was already in production, was therefore pressed into service.

"First it was necessary to procure facsimile signatures of two officials of each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks. These were taken from certificates in the files of the department. Production of special logotype plates, bearing the signature of bank officials was undertaken at the plant of the American Type Founders Co. at Jersey City.

"Several of the important operations are continuing throughout 24 hours of the day."

$5,000,000 Quake Aid Approved by Senators legislative committee was in session but disbanded hurriedly.

A check for the number of injured here was impossible because of the confusion.

The tornado, unlike most twisters that harass the South, struck important cities. Generally tornadoes strike little towns or rural communities, but this one hit Nashville, a city of more than 150,000, and Kingsport, an important manufacturing city in northeast Tennessee.

Fires Added Danger.

At Pruden, a mining town on the Tennessee-Kentucky line, it demolished between 50 and 60 houses. More than a score were injured. They were taken to Middlesboro, Ky., in six ambulances.

Telephone communication to several towns was paralyzed. Such reports as could be obtained from nearby middle Tennessee towns, however, showed that they did not feel the full blast of the wind, but were struck by a heavy rainstorm and hail.

In the storm area in Nashville fires sprang up in several places, keeping fire-fighting equipment on the move almost continuously from the time of the first outburst.

Streets here were littered with debris, at least two in the east section being impassable.

War Veteran Requests Allowance Be Dropped

Expressing by action his approval of President Roosevelt's policy of reducing veterans' compensation, a veteran living in Beaver Falls, Pa., has asked the Veterans' Bureau to cut off his disability allowance, he said in a letter received by the President today.

The veteran, whose name was not given out at the White House, said:

"The amount of money involved is only a drop in the bucket, but it is my duty to help you in any way possible, and this is about the only means available to me at this time.

"I can not help but feel that I will only be one of many more 100 per cent red-blooded Americans that will gladly do the same thing for you."

5 DEAD IN NEW YORK IN NEW CRIME WAVE

Murder at Cordial Shop and Cafe Shooting Puzzle Clew Hunters.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Motives, clews and assailants were sought tonight by police in the metropolitan area, after a series of shootings, stabbings and sluggings in the last 24 hours had left five persons dead and four wounded.

Strangest were a cordial shop murder and a cafe shooting, which authorities believe may be connected.

John Thorne, 27, mortally wounded, staggered from his cordial shop into the arms of a patrolman. The officer carried him back into the store, where he died. The place showed signs of a terrific battle.

While detectives were searching the room for clews, a man ran in to say there had been a shooting in a cafe two blocks away. There officers found Mario Capalla, 22, with a bullet in his right arm. On the floor, battered and unconscious, lay Louis Jorn, 25.

Jorn had staggered into the cafe shouting, "Where is Betty?" and waving a revolver. In a melee Capalla was shot and the armed man beaten until unconscious.

Meanwhile, in a downtown crayon factory, Hyman Berson, 55, was killed and his nephew, Charles Berson, 43, was wounded. Simon Stern, the elder Berson's business partner, was charged with homicide and felonious assault.

John Runkow, whose only known address was Dallas, Tex., died after being shot in an argument with a detective, as he attempted to sell an automobile answering the description of one previously reported stolen. When Runkow drew a pistol the officer fired.

Jock Roach, 45, a printer, was stabbed to death in a Brooklyn apartment. His brother-in-law, John J. Feeney, was arrested on a charge of homicide. Police sought a possible motive.

In Newark, N. J., detectives hunted the assailant who beat David Lederman to death and left Mrs. Lederman unconscious and wounded in their home. The wife said a masked man had attacked them.

Treasury Offering Is Oversubscribed

Woodin Announces Issue Covered 2¼ Times by Returns.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Woodin announced last night that preliminary estimates showed the Treasury had received subscriptions of $1,820,000,000 for the $800,000,000 certificate issues bearing 4 and 4¼ per cent interest. Thus the new Democratic administration's first financing was oversubscribed two and a quarter times.

The certificates will run for five and nine months, and the interest rates compared with ¾ per cent paid on a December issue. The Government's last financing in February was oversubscribed more than 30 times, the subscriptions for $250,000,000 of five year, 2½ per cent notes amounting to $7,800,000,000.

The huge oversubscriptions on that issue caused Secretary Mills to warn that the Treasury would act to prevent padding of subscriptions unless the practice ceased. It had grown since June, 1930, when a $800,000,000 bond issue was oversubscribed eight times.

present banking holiday, and that their other diplomatic privileges had been gradually violated, but that they would not tolerate this further infringement of their immunities, which applied to American diplomats abroad as well as foreign diplomats here. Mr. Phillips suavely calmed their ruffled susceptibilities and immediately got in touch with Treasury officials, who arranged the necessary details with the New York office.

It is believed that the arbitrary action will provoke some investigation by the Treasury Department. The provisions of the law forbidding American ships to engage in the coastwise shipment of liquor was used by the customs official as authority for seizing the liquor. However, several American ships have called at New York with similar cargoes in the past and proceeded to Baltimore without molestation.

ROOSEVELT'S FARM PLAN DUE IN 2 DAYS

To Ask Powers for Wallace as Parleys Go On With Agriculturists.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt plans to send a special message to Congress within a day or two recommending immediate consideration of an emergency farm relief measure to delegate to his administration broad powers to deal with agricultural ills.

The basis of the program will be the proposal of farm organization leaders to make it possible to apply different plans of relief to different products depending on the success of the Secretary in obtaining cooperation between the producers and processors of each.

Secretary Wallace said yesterday that the President "has approved in principle" the first draft of a bill. Changes will be made in the final draft to be submitted to Congress to conform to his views, Wallace said.

One of the provisions, extension of general authority to the President to seek reciprocal trade agreements with other nations in an effort to enlarge the market for American farm produce, is "out," Wallace said.

The farm leaders proposed that Wallace be authorized to make use of many relief proposals, including the domestic allotment principle, land leasing and acquisition of cotton or other commodities on which the Government has made loans or advances and to exchange these with growers for an agreement to reduce acreage.

Wallace said that the processing tax will serve as the chief method of financing the program. Asked who will be the ultimate payer of the tax, Wallace said he believed "the processors will collect it, but the cost will be borne by the consumers."

The measure contemplates the setting of "party prices" as the goal toward which efforts to increase commodity prices will be directed. If and when these prices are obtained, the Government will dismantle its machinery dealing with that commodity.

Wallace was emphatic that "no price-fixing" is contemplated. He said he hopes to apply its provisions to crops produced this year.

Wallace conferred with representatives of processors during the day, including millers, packers, dairy enterprises and cotton mills. He said he "found them in a cooperative frame of mind."

While the bill proposes to extend general powers to the Secretary to regulate the marketing and processing of wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, rice, tobacco, milk and its products, Wallace said this contemplates no interference with established exchanges. It is not intended to affect futures trading in cereal grains, he said.

Byrd Would Have Congress Adjourn

Cessation After Emergency Program Is Passed Urged by Senator.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Byrd, of Virginia, urged yesterday that Congress adjourn and stay adjourned until next winter after the emergency program as passed.

"In my judgment," Byrd said in an interview, "if Congress would enact emergency legislation deemed necessary by the President and then adjourn until the next regular session in January, we would do much to advance the return of prosperity."

"We are enacting legislation of tremendous importance," he added, "and time must be given the President to administer the authority we have given him."

tect Spanish-American War veteran interests.

Senator Dill proposed that all pensioned Spanish War veterans over 62 be kept on the rolls, while Senator McGill offered a substitute to limit cuts in all Spanish-American veteran benefits to 10 per cent. When a prolonged conflict appeared in the offing, Senator Harrison moved for recess.

Amendment Adopted.

The amendment retaining service-connected World War and Spanish-American pension cases on the rolls, sponsored by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, was adopted without objection.

Senator Harrison offered a substitute for the Black amendment, excluding court judgments to veterans from economy act cuts. The Harrison substitute would have excluded from exemptions only future court judgments. It was defeated, 56 to 18, and the Black amendment was agreed to viva voce.

Amendments made by the Senate Finance Committee were adopted without opposition early in the evening. One requires that cost of living data, on which salaries will be cut, be supplied by Federal agencies. Another gives permanent status to veterans' cuts still in force after two years.

Introduced by Black.

Senator Hugo L. Black (Democrat), Alabama, entered the amendment to exempt all court awards to veterans from provisions of the bill.

Bitter exchanges that marked the first day's debate broke out anew last night, when Finance Committee Chairman Harrison charged Senator Arthur R. Robinson (Republican), Indiana, outspoken opponent of the bill, with "playing politics."

"Be not deceived," said Harrison. "The American people are with that man in the White House, who is showing courage and manifesting action."

Preceding yesterday's extended session, Senate Democrats, in their first party caucus, bound themselves as a unit to support the bill granting the President extraordinary powers. They were left free, however, to support any amendments they might favor.

Late in the day Senator Borah took the floor to defend the cause of the low-salaried worker, pointing out that both United States senators, who draw $10,000, and charwomen, who earn less than $1,000, would take the same 15 per cent cut.

He asked Harrison if he did not think there should be a limitation in this lower group.

Harrison said he did not. He contended workers would get just as much, relatively as in former years, if their cost of living were cut 15 per cent.

At the same time, Senator Borah served notice he will press an amendment today to reduce the mileage allowance for senators and representatives from 20 cents to 5 cents a mile. His purpose is to limit them to actual expenditures involved in trips to and from sessions of Congress.

The mileage allowance was cut to 15 cents a mile under the old economy act, but will go back to the 20-cent basis when the old act expires July 1.

2 LEAS HELD IN JAIL TO AWAIT HEARINGS

Father and Son Rearrested in North Carolina Bank-Fraud Conviction.

Clarkaville, Tenn., March 14 (A.P.).—Arrested more than a month after their extradition to North Carolina was ordered, Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, and his son, Luke Lea, jr., were placed in jail here today pending a habeas corpus hearing Monday.

Col. Led, a former United States senator, and his son were convicted in Asheville in August, 1931, on charges of violating State banking laws in connection with the collapse of the Central Bank & Trust Co.

The elder Lea was sentenced to from six to ten years in the State penitentiary and Lea, jr., was given an alternative sentence of two to six years or $25,000 in fines and costs.

They were taken into custody on a warrant signed by Gov. Hill McAlister on February 7, when he honored a requisition from the Governor of North Carolina for their removal to that State.

Sheriff W. E. Beaumont of Montgomery County (Clarksville) made the arrests at the request of Sheriff Laurence E. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Frank Lakey, of Asheville, designated in the warrant as agents to return the Leas to North Carolina.

Immediately after the Leas' arrest, County Judge John T. Cunningham granted a writ of habeas corpus and set the hearing for 10 a. m., Monday. However, the judge refused application of the Leas' counsel for bond and they were placed in separate cells in the county jail.

PRITTWITZ, AGAINST NAZI RULE, RESIGNS

Career Ambassador, Here 5 Years, Is Republican in Sympathies.

(Associated Press.)

German Facism's recent political victory had its repercussion yesterday in the resignation of Dr. Frederich Wilhelm von Prittwitz und Gaffron, Ambassador to the United States for five years.

The German Ambassador is not in sympathy with the program of the Hitler Nazis, who gained a majority in the Reichstag election early in March. His resignation has not yet been acted upon, but his recall is expected in the near future.

For many months the Washington ambassador has been subject to attacks from the Hitler press in Germany and his retirement is not unexpected.

Dr. von Prittwitz und Gaffron is a career diplomat of 25 years experience and has survived many changes in party control of the German republic. He is not a member of any political party, but is an avowed Republican.

No other changes are expected in the personnel of the local German embassy, as the staff members are all career officials under the German civil service. Only the heads of missions are ordinarily subject to change under the German foreign service practice when new governments are created.

Dr. von Prittwitz und Gaffron served in Washington for two years on a previous tour of duty as junior secretary under Baron Speck von Sternberg, the friends and riding companion of President Theodore Roosevelt. He was counsellor of embassy at Rome when named ambassador to Washington.

HOUSE PASSES 3.2 BEER BILL; EARLY SENATE VOTE EXPECTED

and the President. Seldom, if ever before in peace time, has Congress acted so expeditiously on vitally important measures submitted to it. There has been, of course, a long time for futile debate on almost every subject since President Roosevelt took the President's chair and said what he wanted done. . .

Speaker Votes Aye.

Speaker Rainey gave further notice of the new order of things when, at the conclusion of the roll call on the beer bill, he ordered the calling of his name and voted "aye" in a firm tone. When he announced the result, Representative Thomas H. Cullen, of New York, Tammany leader and assistant Democratic leader, who had introduced the beer bill, leaped to his feet and applauded. Most of the members of the House followed his example and the well-filled galleries joined in. There was, however, an absence of that tension which on other occasions has prompted rebel yells and wild shouts. The result was known in advance, despite the three hours of debate which preceded the vote.

Analysis of the roll call showed that 238 Democrats voted for the bill, as did 73 Republicans and the five Farmer-Laborites. Those who voted against it included 58 Democrats and 39 Republicans. Thirteen members did not vote. Some were sick. Representative James W. Wadsworth (Republican), of New York, was absent, but was paired with Representative Frank R. Reid (Republican), of Illinois, who was against it; Representative William N. Rogers (Democrat), of New Hampshire, was paired for the bill against Representative Wilburn Vartwright (Democrat), of Oklahoma, who was against it.

Without Amendment.

The bill was passed without amendment as it was reported out of the ways and means committee which had been called together by the tall, black-hatted new chairman, Representative Robert L. Doughton (Democrat), of North Carolina. Appointment of the committee membership had been formally approved by the House as soon as it convened. A session was called and approval given to the beer bill which had been drafted by a subcommittee composed of Representatives John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts; Cullen, Fred M. Vinson, of Kentucky; Samuel B. Hill, of Washington, and Charles West, of Ohio, all Democrats, and all of whom voted for the bill.

The bill contains a provision for protection of dry States. It reasserts the provision of the Webb-Kenyon law for this purpose. It does not prescribe Federal regulation of the manufacture and sale. That question is left to individual localities. Whether it permits manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer in the District seems a matter to be decided, but Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), of Maryland, introduced a special beer bill for the District and Speaker Rainey said he believed it could be enacted promptly.

License Fee Fixed.

A license fee of $1,000 per year per brewery is imposed on manufacturers, plus a tax of $5 a barrel of 31 gallons. Manufacturers are not permitted to engage in retail business. Additional taxes are imposed on retailers, varying according to the class of business. If beer is to be drunk on the premises where sold it must be taken with food.

It was advocated as a measure which would inspirit employment and industry and consumption of farm products as well as produce large revenues for the Treasury. Estimates of prospective revenues have ranged from the $125,000,000 estimate by former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills to two or three times that amount.

QUAKE AREA SPEEDS WORK OF RECOVERY

Pneumonia Is Contracted by Refugees Sleeping on Damp Ground.

Los Angeles, March 14 (U.P.).—Southern California earthquake victims ignored the terror of recurrent settling shocks and a threatened pneumonia epidemic today in a determined drive to bring the stricken region back to normalcy.

Money from reopened banks and emergency funds voted by the State Legislature eased the financial situation in a dozen cities and towns, where wrecking crews were clearing the debris from last Friday's major earthquake, and making way for new buildings.

Thousands of refugees in Long Beach, Compton, Watts and other devastated cities joined slowly in a migration from parks, golf courses and vacant lots back to their homes.

Thorough engineering inspections of every dwelling convinced most of them that the homes approved by experts were safe. Scientists gave reassuring statements that the possibility of added danger from settling shocks were remote.

The plight, too, of 16 pneumonia victims who contracted the affliction from sleeping on damp ground was a compelling factor in diminishing the crowds of outdoor campers. The first outbreak of pneumonia last night was dealt with summarily by health authorities, and today only a few cases of influenza and severe colds were added.

At least four new tremors shook the Los Angeles metropolitan area today. Like their predecessors, the jolts sent tottering walls crashing in districts where Friday's quake claimed some 129 lives, injured hundreds more and caused $60,000,000 damage.

Police Push Car; Find It's Stolen

Two Youths Are Held After Asking Assistance of Detectives.

It was their mistake when Adolph DeSales Juenemann, 17, and William H. Carey, 16, asked Detective Sergts. Jake Wolf and H. D. Robey to give their automobile a push so that it could be started.

While they were pushing the car the detectives became suspicious and an investigation showed, they said, that the car belonged to Miss Virginia Milburn, of Media, Pa.

The officers said the car had been reported stolen from Twenty-fifth and Q streets northwest. Juenemann was held yesterday for the grand jury under $1,500 bond, while Carey's case was taken to Juvenile Court.

UNPRECEDENTED DEPOSITS SHOWN BY DISTRICT BANKS

Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank.

W. H. C. Brown, president of Industrian Savings Bank.

George W. Offutt, president of the Potomac Savings Bank.

J. L. Bailey, a national bank examiner, United States Savings Bank.

Robert A. Sisson, vice president of the Washington Savings Bank.

Richard L. Hargreaves, formerly an official of the examining division of the Comptroller of the Currency, at the Park Savings Bank.

John D. Howard, president of the Seventh Street Savings Bank.

Duties Are Two-Fold.

The immediate effect of the placement of the thirteen institutions in conservatorships will be to freeze all assets.

Then the conservators begin their work. Their primary duties are two-fold. They are:

1. To protect to the utmost the interest of depositors.

2. To reorganize and to restore those banks which are basically sound, but whose assets are temporarily frozen.

While this process is going on, the conservator and the Comptroller is empowered, under the emergency banking bill, to do the following:

1. The conservator is enabled to set aside for withdrawal by depositors on a ratable basis such amounts as the Comptroller says may be so used safely.

2. The Comptroller is permitted to allow banks under conservators to receive new deposits, which would be segregated and subject to withdrawal without restriction.

The emergency bank bill also permits the reorganization of national banks upon the approval of the Comptroller, and, as the case may be, either of depositors of 75 per cent of total deposits or holders of two-thirds of the outstanding capital stock, or by the approval of both interested groups and the Comptroller.

Apple-Pie Order.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin said: "It is for the purpose of insuring that the banks will be put in apple-pie order, pending reorganization or other necessary processes, that conservators in many cases are named.

"Moreover, this method makes it possible that the bank so circumstanced will be able to continue to render service, as, for example, the receiving of deposits to be segregated and kept in cash or invested in Government bonds and such like securities. It also enables the conservator to set aside and make available for withdrawal by depositors and payment to other creditors on a ratable basis such amounts as in his opinion is safe to use for this purpose."

The dike that was thrown about the District's money by the banking holiday was blasted by the reopening of the 20 licensed banks and every building and loan association, which flooded the citys 'monetary arteries with more currency than had ever circulated on a single day in its financial history.

The same optimism registered by depositors of banks which were licensed to open had its counterpart in the depositors of banks which are now under conservators.

The conservator will undertake to "unfreeze" the assets. In some cases it may be deemed to the depositor's interest to consolidate with stronger banks or to reorganize. In short, the conservator will pursue whatever course is deemed to the advantage of the man who has placed his money in the bank; for the depositors' welfare precedes all other considerations. There has been no definite plans advanced as yet for any mergers or reorganizations.

The scenes presented in the banks yesterday were in strange contrast to those of less than two weeks ago. Where lines of worried, anxious and panicky depositors once stood drawing their deposits, there stood longer lines of assured and confident persons, putting money back into the bank.

The hysteria was gone. In its place was confidence and optimism for the future. There were no lines at the paying tellers' windows. There were long lines of new customers, opening accounts. There were longer lines of depositors replacing their money.

Placed at 15 to 1.

Extra help was needed in the new accounts departments. Less manpower was needed at the paying-out windows. The ratio of total deposits, compared with total withdrawals was conservatively estimated at 15 to 1.

In one large bank, the money redeposited totaled $3,000,000.

The gold hoarders were there in great numbers. Since the hoarding fad was broken, it has become known that one prominent person here deposited $500,000, which he had withdrawn during the period of hysteria. Another panic-stricken person of wealth redeposited $100,000, which he had hoarded.

The lengthy and extraordinary meetings of the Washington Clearing House Association held during the holiday will be discontinued and the regular daily meetings will now be held.

The Clearing House yesterday cleared thousands of checks drawn on out-of-town banks which were stagnated as a result of the holiday. Today they they will begin work on checks drawn on local banks.

Prepared Stock Clause.

The emergency banking bill introduced a new element in banking by its provision, allowing the issuance of preferred stock in the reorganization of any bank. Heretofore, only common stock was issued.

The new plan, it is understood, is to limit to 6 per cent the amount to be earned by preferrred stock. This, it is expected, will invite the capital of ultra-conservative investors to banks whose assets are temporarily frozen.

In boom times, the common stockholder often gets much more than 6 per cent on his investment, but in times of stress he is subject to liability to the extent of twice the value of the stock he holds. If there is a deficit in abnormal times, he is liable for the deficit to the amount of twice the value of his stock.

The prefefred stockholder is relieved of double liability. If there is money left after the depositor has been paid, the preferred stockholder gets his 6 per cent, and the common stockholder gets what is left.

Allowed to Make Loans.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is permitted, under the new law, to make loans upon the security of such stock, whenever the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, considers it necessary to supply funds for the reorganization of any of the banks.

The board of governors of the Washington Stock Exchange will meet this morning to consider reopening for business.

Karl Corby, president of the exchange, said that while the local exchange would not operate unless the New York Stock Exchange is open, the fact that the New York exchange is open does not indicate the necessary opening of the Washington exchange.

Lawyer Blames Quake For Adverse Decision

Los Angeles, March 14 (A.P.).—A plea that an earthquake jolted justice was before the Superior Court here today.

Counsel for Herbert Odza asked for a new trial, setting forth that the Friday night earthquakes affected the minds of the jurors who later convicted Odza, real estate man, on a grand theft charge.

The jury was deadlocked Friday afternoon. When the quake came a woman juror fainted. The jury went to dinner, but soon thereafter reached the verdict. Counsel contended the earthquake broke the deadlock and will argue on this at a hearing next Tuesday.

LIMA REVOLT HEAD, TRAPPED, KILLS SELF

Suicide of Jimenez Follows Battle; Was Defeated in Presidential Race.

Lima, Peru, March 14 (A.P.).—Lieut. Col. Gustavo Jimenez, defeated candidate for president in the 1932 election and leader of a series of revolts against the government, committed suicide today after a four-four battle in which rebel forces were defeated, the government announced.

An official communique said that when Col. Jimenez recognized defeat was inevitable he attempted to escape by motor car to Puemape on the seashore, but government forces cut him off and he killed himself with his own revolver. The body was taken to Trujillo.

For a brief time in 1930 Col. Jimenez was provisional president of the nation. Subsequently he became minister of war in the cabinet of President Samanez Ocampo.

Several government announcements told of success in the field against the rebels. In addition to the evacuation of the town of San Pedro by rebellious forces commanded by Col. Jimenez, a communique said that mutiny in a garrison at the town of Cajamarca was being suppressed.

A division of loyal troops defeated rebels at San Cristobal who were marching on Salaverry, the government announced, and loyalists in the Trujillo area were trying to corner revolutionaries there.

BOWLES THEFT CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

Partial Victory Is Won by Disbarred Attorney; One Count Quashed.

Norman S. Bowles, disbarred attorney, won a partial victory in District Supreme Court yesterday when Assistant United States Attorney John Fitzpatrick withdrew from jury consideration the second count of the indictment under which Bowles is being tried. A remaining count charges Bowles with embezzling some $17,500 belonging to Miss Christine Rock.

The count withdrawn charged Bowles with larceny of that amount. At the conclusion of the Government's case, Fitzpatrick announced he wished to quash the last count.

Two attempts were made yesterday by Bowles to get a directed verdict from Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue. At the end of the Government's evidence he asked for a directed verdict and also at the conclusion of his own testimony. Both were overruled by Justice O'Donoghue.

With the completion of the taking of the evidence late yesterday the case will go to the jury today. Both sides have a number of instructions they wish given to the jury and after they are argued and read, and the attorneys for the prosecution and defense address the jury, the case will be placed in the hands of the jurors.

Bowles was on the stand most of yesterday. Acting as his own attorney, he first addressed the jury on what he expected to prove, and then, taking the witness stand, denied the Government's charges. He was given an extensive cross-examination by Mr. Fitzpatrick. He stuck to his story that he had been "framed."

California Court Delays Action in Monks' Appeal

Fresno, Calif., March 14 (A.P.).—The Fourth District Court of Appeals today continued until April 11 a hearing on the appeal of Mrs. Allan B. Monks, wife of Allan B. Monks, scion of a wealthy Eastern family, from a conviction in a Los Angeles court on a forgery charge.

Mrs. Monks was charged with keeping Monks in hiding and under her domination while she spent his inheritance.

Roosevelt's Beer Appeal Is Scored

Cannon and McBride Join in Denouncing White House's Wet Place.

(Associated Press.)

Statements opposing the Cullen beer bill passed and sent to the Senate yesterday by the House were issued last night by spokesmen for prohibition organizations here.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Dr. E. L. Crawford, president and secretary of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, jointly said the action of President Roosevelt in urging passage of the measure would demolish the confidence of his leadership by a great multitude of good citizens."

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, issued a "72-word argument against beer." He said: "Legalized beer containing sufficient alcohol to create a new beverage industry would be strong enough to create countless alcoholic appetites, especially among young people."

Japanese Blockade Of China Pictured

Speaker Says Tokyo Ready to Defy World in Lust for Land.

A Japanese blockade stretching the length of the Pacific ocean to prevent interference from other nations during her drive on China, was predicted by Paul Linebarger, legal adviser to the Nationalist Government of China, last night before the History Club of George Washington University.

Discussing Japan's aggressiveness and lust for power, Mr. Linebarger said that Japan would let nothing stand in her way of gaining territory in China.

"A blockade of the entry waters to China would make the efforts of other nations to assist China in any way, practically impossible," he said.

He urged America to "internationalize herself in the East," and said that public opinion concerning the Chinese in America is good. "The Chinese have ever been the most law-abiding of all the aliens in America," he said.

ROPER DENOUNCES U. S. TARIFF STAND

Policy "That Antagonizes Rest of World" Is Held Unsuccessful.

(Associated Press.)

Attacking the present American tariff system, Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, last night advocated a tariff policy "of common sense and common decency" to other nations.

At the same time he predicted a diminishing of the activities of the Department of Commerce. He asserted activities of doubtful value would be eliminated and that employes of doubtful efficiency would be discharged. It was his first speech as Secretary of Commerce.

"For too many years," Roper said, "we have, as a Nation, been fervant in our protestations of a desire to foster our international trade while at the same time we have actually been doing our best to place in its path almost insurmountable obstacles. There are honest differences of opinion as to tariff policies, but I believe that an overwhelming majority of the American people have unmistakably shown that they are tired of a policy that has antagonized every other nation in the world."

Buying, as well as selling, must occur in foreign commerce, he said, adding that no nation could successfully market its own goods if it persisted in refusing to admit a reasonable volume of the products of other countries.

The time has come, he added, for cooperation with other nations, and said he was hopeful that much good would come from the forthcoming world economic conference.

"Our representatives (at the conference) will adopt an attitude of real cooperation, of sympathetic neighborship, when they take their places about the council table," he said. "When we 'play the game' other nations will, too."

HENRY W. THORNTON, RAIL BUILDER, DEAD

Hoosier Won Knighthood and Fame as Road Chief in England and Canada.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Sir Henry W. Thornton, K. C. B. E., a native Hoosier who gained fame in England and Canada as a railroad executive, died today in doctor's hospital.

Sir Henry, known to Logansport, Ind., his birthplace, as "Little Hen." Thornton, was 61 years old. Pneumonia and euremic poisoning set in early today after an abdominal operation.

For eight years, Sir Henry was general manager of the Great Eastern Railway of England. His selection in 1914, after a career in American railroading that began as a draughtsman with the Pennsylvania system, was greeted with protest by London newspapers and in parliament Sir Henry was termed an "undesirable alien."

But he built a reputation as one of the ablest railroad men in the empire. In the early twenties, the Canadian government was looking about for some one to unify its roads. Thorton was chosen in 1922 and built the Canadian National Railways into the largest railway system on the North American continent.

As president and general manager, he made into one system the Grand Trunk, the Grand Trunk Pacific, Canadian Northern and the Transcontinental and Intercolonial.

He resigned in July, 1932.

In 1919, Thornton became a naturalized British citizen. That same year he was made a knight commander of the Order of the British Empire. He also held the rank of major general and in the late war years was in charge of transportation of English troops.

PERSONS seated behind posts supporting the roofs of grandstands on Inauguration Day wondered why it had not been possible to design a structure with overhanging roof and no supports in front, thereby giving spectators clear vision.

The national committee on wood utilization, Commerce, has given the answer in its handbook just published entitled "Modern Connectors for Timber Construction." It demonstrates the possibility of increasing the strength of wood joints from four to eight times, compared with the bolted joints, thereby giving wood several times its normal strength as a building material.

The committee has published designs for grandstands of this type. This system has an application in hundreds of important types of wood construction. The report is a cooperative undertaking between the committee and the forest products laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

AXEL H. OXHOLM, director of the national committee on wood utilization, has, for fourteen years, studied this system and its application in European countries, and as a result of intensive field work has got together more information than is available anywhere else in the world on this subject.

The connectors are rings, plates and dowels inserted between two wooden connectors to be joined and held together by the bolt. In this manner the load is transferred from the bolt to the connector and this causes added strength to the structure.

Already engineers, architects and builders throughout the country have indorsed the system and Dr. Wilson Compton, secretary-manager of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, says, "This is the greatest advance in wood construction in a century." In this time of depression and inactivity it is gratifying to find that some one is constantly developing useful information as a pratical aid in setting the wheels of industry in motion.

CELLIST PRESENTED IN BENEFIT CONCERT

Stephen Deak Accompanied by Miksa Merson at Ten o'Clock Club.

As the third in a series of six benefit concerts, the Ten o'Clock Club presented Stephen Deak, violoncellist, in his Washington debut, playing a program of modern sonatas, at the Washington Club last evening.

At the piano was Miksa Merson, well-remembered for his Liszt renditions with the National Symphony Orchestra last season.

The program opened with Sergei Rachmaninoff's sonata, in four movements, followed by the local premiere of a sonata in three movements by Baltimore's famed conductor-composer, Gustav Strube. As the final number, Jean Hure's work was presented.

Of the three sonatas, that by Composer Strube was most enthusiastically received, the composer himself, coming for the occasion, receiving no less acclaim than the artists who so admirably interpreted the work.

The work of Rahmaninoff, and to a somewhat lesser degree that of Strube, is of heroic proportions, requiring the expert touch of a master technician—and that touch Mr. Deak gave the compositions. But in the sonata of Hure the soloist combined his mastery of the cello with the charming French work for the most delightful number. W. A. WHITNEY.

14th and H Building Sells for $350,000

Cigar Corporation Block Is Bought by Agent of S. W. Labrot.

An important business building at the northwest corner of Fourteenth and H streets northwest, containing nine stores and a restaurant, was sold at public auction yesterday to Paul F. Myers, representing Sylvester W. Labrot, holders of the notes, for $350,000. James O'Donnell, retired capitalist, the other bidder, sent the bidding from $325,000 to the final figure. The sale was advertised by Riggs National Bank, as trustee, and Vernon G. Owen was the auctioneer.

The building, a two-story and basement stone, brick and steel structure, was erected in 1927 by United Stores Realty Corporation, original owner. Waddy B. Wood, of this city, was the architect. It has a frontage of 52 feet on H street and one of 150 feet on Fourteenth. Its former owner was the Cigar Stores Realty Holdings, Inc.

The current assessed value of the structure is $641,490, of which $546,490 represents land. The building's original estimated cost was $125,000.

MEASURE VOTED BY SENATE TO GRANT STATE BANK LOANS

struction Finance Corporation and the Federal Reserve Banks to make loans to conservators of national banks. Such loans, however, must first be approved by the Comptroller of the Currency, under whom all national bank conservators operate. The Comptroller has no authority to appoint conservators for State banks other than in the District of Columbia.

Because of the bold demands of the country bank defenders in both the House and Senate yesterday, considerable uncertainty prevailed among Democratic leaders last night as to whether additional legislation would be attempted in the present emergency session.

May Get Farm Program.

Although there were indications that President Roosevelt might send up a broad program for agricultural relief today, Senate leaders were more inclined last night to the view that every pressure would be exerted to enact the economy and beer bills and then recess for three or four weeks.

The insurgency in the House and Senate on the State banking has gained considerable momentum since the real significance of last Thursday's law began to be grasped by the statesmen on Capitol Hill. Under the circumstances an early adjournment appears not improbable.

Responsible leaders of both parties acknowledge that the disruption of the emergency banking program at this point would be disastrous. They are discussing an adjournment Saturday.

1,000 More Banks Resume.

While the Senate wrangled over possible revision of the easy money provisions of the emergency banking bill and pressed forward also with the budget-balancing economy measure, approximately 1,000 additional banks resumed unrestricted operations yesterday in the 250 clearing house cities of the United States.

With yesterday's openings, about half of the Federal Reserve system and hundreds of approved State banks are now doing regular business at the old stand.

Under the Treasury's resumption program, as announced Sunday night by President Roosevelt, the country banks will resume business this morning. Those which are members of the Federal Reserve System will receive their resumption licenses directly from their regional Reserve Bank, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Those not within the Reserve System will be authorized to resume under the authority of the several State banking departments.

How quickly some of the less liquid country banks resume may depend to considerable extent upon what help they get under the emergency act, and upon whether the Robinson amendment approved yesterday in the Senate ever becomes operative.

Even should this amendment become law, it was explained in banking circles last night, the amount of money weak State banks could get under it would depend entirely upon administrative policy. Under the law, this is entirely in the hands of the Federal Reserve boards in the twelve Reserve cities.

Banking circles generally anticipate that the heaviest casualties of the bank holiday will be counted eventually among the smaller country banks, which have always declined to accept the responsibilities of Federal Reserve membership. Unofficially, it has been stated here that perhaps 3,000 of America's 18,000 banks will not be authorized to resume without some degree of reorganization.

Conservator System.

In the case of national banks, this reorganization or rehabilitation is to be carried on under the conservator system, subject to the general supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency.

As regards State banks, the matter is entirely in the hands of the State banking commissions. There will thus be a considerable latitude from State to State in the standards of solvency applied in issuing resumption license. The Treasury already has declared that in sanctioning State bank resumptions it will accept the certification of the respective State authorities.

Far Exceed Withdrawals.

Deposits far exceeded withdrawals yesterday in the clearing house centers which began unrestricted operations, according to word received last night in the Federal Reserve Board. Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin was highly gratified by the progress recorded Monday and yesterday in the reopening schedule.

"The people have been cooperating with us magnificently," Secretary Woodin said. "Everywhere it is indicated that the era of fear that was so manifest before the banking holidays has completely passed."

The New York Stock Exchange will reopen this morning, and the principal commodity and security exchanges are expected to follow this week.

Postoffice Pens Ordered Kept in Writing Condition

Evans Instructs Postal Officials to Renew Supply Daily or Even Oftener Where Necessary for Convenience of Public.

There is to be a new deal for the millions of those who use the pens and ink at postoffices throughout the United States. For years the lowly pen point found in postoffices has been the target of attack from stage, screen and radio performers.

Today, Silliman Evans, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, caused this order to be broadcast to postmasters throughout the Nation:

"The inconvenience to patrons of postoffices because of lack of proper writing materials, including pen holders, pen points and ink, in the lobbies of the postoffices has been widely commented on for years.

"There is, of course, no reason why an adequate supply of pen holders, pen points and ink should not be furnished for the use of patrons of all postoffices throughout the country.

"The postmaster or some one person designated by him should see that pen points are replaced at least once each day where they are used to any considerable extent, and more frequently where necessary. Postoffice patrons are entitled to this consideration and it is particularly desirable that special attention be given thereto. A bulletin notice once each month or two, for an extended period, is suggested.

"Please see to it that postoffices are served promptly and in sufficient quantities with the necessary pen holders, pen points and ink to the end that there may be no complaint of insufficient supplies."

For the fiscal year beginning July 1 next the department estimates that 4,557,600 pen points will be needed to supply postoffices throughout the country with proper writing material.

ARLINGTON BRIDGE VIEWS UNCHANGED

State and County Officials Turn to Temporary Route in Dispute.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

According to reports from Col. H. G. Shirley, chairman of the Virginia State Highway Commission, the commission has definitely determined it can not abandon the proposed northern approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge for the southern route, which has been approved by the county board, without an act of the General Assembly. Shirley says, therefore, the best that can be hoped for this year is the construction of a temporary connection, if it is possible to find one.

The road in question is the connecting link between the bridge and the Lee Boulevard, which at present has stopped in the vicinity of Lyon Park awaiting the beginning of work over the Government rights of way.

Not being in a position to continue the extension of the boulevard to the bridge, the commission now plans to proceed with the surfacing of the boulevard west from Lyon Park as soon as the problem of the pass over the tracks of the Old Dominion Railway near Glencarlyn is settled.

Having given much time in an effort to continue the boulevard to the bridge, that the residents of the county might have an adequate approach to it, County Manager Roy S. Braden says that a temporary route might well follow the route of the permanent connection, so that when the matter came before the General Assembly all that would be necessary for the commission to do would be to make the temporary connection a permanent one.

Regardless of the outcome of the Lee boulevard dispute, that being entirely a State project, Braden says the county is going ahead with its efforts to obtain the necessary right of way for the extension of Wilson boulevard, in order to give the county an adequate approach to the bridge without delay.

Alabama House Votes August Repeal Action

Montgomery, Ala., March 14 (U.P.).—The Alabama House of Representatives voted 69 to 27 today to provide a convention next August to consider repeal of the eighteenth amendment. All delegates would be bound by pledges to express the will of a majority of the electorate under the measure.

The bill approved today is a substitute for an original repeal convention bill, passed by the Senate last week. It now goes to a conference committee, where immediate action is expected. Final action on the measure is expected Thursday.

ALEXANDRIA TRUCK EMBARGO HELD UP

Council Votes on Proposal to Limit Passage on Sabbath.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

The Alexandria City Council last night seriously considered an ordinance which would have prevented the passage through the city of trucks between midnight Saturday and midnight Sunday, except those transporting mail, newspapers, milk or ice, and repair trucks on errands of mercy. There was heated discussions, and the vote in favor of the proposed ordinance was 6 to 3. The vote against the measure was sufficient to prevent its passage at this meeting, and it is now in abeyance.

Councilman Davison proposed that action be taken by the mayor and city manager to prevent the public utilities of the city cutting off service, particularly water, in cases where such action might possibly menace public health. The mayor and city manager were instructed to take up this matter with utilities officials so that no suffering shall result.

A proposition to sell taxpayers certificates in amounts of $1, $5 and $10, which would be negotiable for the payment of taxes, was held over. The proposition is for any potential taxpayer, when funds are available, to purchase from the city treasurer these warrants, on which the city will pay 6 per cent interest, and which may be held and applied on the payment of any tax bills.

The application of Maury W. Gaines, for a gasoline filling station in the 100 block of South Alfred street, was finally denied. An application for a permit to establish a gasoline filling station on the southwest corner of Washington and Franklin streets, by Ben B. Ezrine, which contemplates rezoning of this location, was set for a public hearing April 11.

The date for the payment of all city licenses, including automobile, was extended until April 15.

The four banks of Alexandria, the First National, the Citizens National, the Alexandria National and Burke & Herbert, private bankers, have all been authorized to open for business as usual today.

Texas House Engrosses Local Option Resolution

Austin, Tex., March 14 (A.P.).—The Texas House today engrossed a resolution proposing submission to the electorate of an amendment to eliminate the existing prohibition section from the State constitution and provide for return of local option in dealing with the liquor problem.

The vote was 74 to 55. A two-thirds vote in each House would be necessary to submit the proposition.

ADEQUATE DEFENSE ACTIVITIES UPHELD

District D. A. R. Chapter to Continue 32d Annual Session Today.

The national defense activities of the D. A. R. were upheld by Mrs. George Maynard Minor, honorary president general, in an address before the thirty-second annual meeting of the District of Columbia Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday afternoon.

She pointed out to the meeting, however, that the advocacy of an adequate Army and Navy was not the only activity nor the most important activity of the society.

"Do not forget," she warned, "that our saving of records, marking historic spots, work for schools, our recognition by the Government in tax free property, our war work, our cooperating with the Government in lending our hall for conference on disarmament, the manuel, the work on Ellis Island—all these are some of the important, far-reaching activities that attracted women to membership, gave us recognition by the Government and a high standing with the public."

The meeting will continue through today, with morning and afternoon sessions.

Slash in Arlington Taxation Proposed

Board Allows Two Weeks' Delay in Payment of Water Bills.

Judge Harry R. Thomas, of the Business and Professional Men's Taxpayers League, told the Arlington County Board of Commissioners last night that his organization was of the opinion that taxes in the county should be reduced 25 per cent. Reductions in the salaries of county officials of at least 10 per cent also was advocated by representatives of the Civic Federation of the county and the county chamber of commerce.

Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the board, told the delegates that their recommendation would be considered at the next meeting, probably Saturday.

On the motion of L. M. Kelley, the board voted to extend the time for payment of water bills from March 15 to March 31.

G. U. SCHOLARSHIP HONORS SZECHENYI

Hungarian Student Will Be Chosen Every 4 Years by Minister.

A four-year scholarship has been created by the president and directors of Georgetown College as a tribute to the retiring Hungarian Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi. The scholarship will be given to a Hungarian student of Minister Szechenyi's choice.

The Hungarian Minister was informed of the action of the local institution in a letter from the university officials, which is as follows:

"The president and directors of Georgetown College, desiring to pay tribute to the retiring Hungarian Minister to the United States, his excellency, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, have decreed that a Hungarian student of his excellency's choice be granted a tuition scholarship for four years in either the College of Arts and Sciences or the School of Law or the Foreign Service School. Hereby the directors wish to retain as it were vicariously, his excellency's presence within the walls of the venerable University of Georgetown, as well as the fond memory of his splendid term of service. They, indeed, regret that his official obligations call him elsewhere, but they cherish the thought that his excellency and his loving family may soon return to grace again official and social Washington.

"(Signed)
"W. COLEMAN NEVILS, S. J.,
"President."

In accepting the scholarship Minister Szechenyi declared that the gift had "given me more pleasure than any degree or anything of that sort could have done."

New Fire House Officially Delayed

$40,000 Annual Saving Is Claimed by Board in Postponement.

The District Commissioners yesterday decided to postpone indefinitely the construction of the authorized firehouse at Sixteenth street and Colorado avenue. The action, which was forecast last week, was taken upon the recommendation of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, who had been informed by Fire Chief George S. Watson that maintenance of the station would cost $40,000 a year.

Although the Commissioners have on hand an appropriation of more than $71,000, made by Congress in 1928, they believe that the need for municipal economy is greater at this time than the need for the firehouse.

Location of the firehouse at the proposed site was long contested in the courts by residents of the area, but was recently approved by the United States Supreme Court.

INCOME TAX FILING DEADLINE EXTENDED

were addressed "to collectors of internal revenue and others concerned," and said:

"In accordance with the provisions of section 53 of the revenue act of 1932, an extension of time for filing income tax returns for individuals, fiduciaries and corporations for the calendar year 1932 is hereby granted up to and including March 31, 1933, and the return when so filed shall be accompanied by at least one-fourth of the tax, together with interest of such amount at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from March 15, 1933."

Income Tax Offices Plan To Stay Open Late Today

Indications last night were that the local office of the deputy collector of Internal Revenue would remain open tonight until midnight for the filing of Federal income tax returns, despite the extension order.

Thousands of Washingtonians yesterday visited the office here in the Internal Revenue Building, Twelfth street and Constitution avenue, to file their returns. The office remained open until 9 o'clock last night.

Officials of the internal revenue office here early last night had not been officially informed of the extension and therefore would not be quoted as to the effect it would have on their procedure.

Wrecked Auto Found With Cargo of Spirits

Its cargo of liquor mostly smashed, a wrecked auto was found overturned on a high bank near the main entrance to Mount Olivet Cemetery yesterday.

Most of the liquor had been spilled from tin containers, but ten 5-gallon containers of alcohol were salvaged. The car had been stolen from its owner here March 5, and was thought to have been used by rumrunners to convey liquor from Baltimore here.

Laundry Theft Suspect Is Held for Grand Jury

Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, yesterday ordered Thomas H. Jackson, colored, held for the grand jury under $10,000 bond after he had heard testimony that Jackson had robbed the cash register of an Elite Laundry branch at Seventh and H streets northeast last Thursday.

Miss Betty Watson, clerk, told Judge Hitt the man entered the office and took $5 from the register. He was seized after a short chase by Anthony Norcio, who was attracted by Miss Watson's screams.

SHROPSHIRE GUILTY ON MANN ACT COUNT

Verdict Found in 10 Minutes; Youth Faces Maximum of 5 Years in Prison.

Convicted yesterday of charges of violating the Mann act, Homer B. Shropshire, 20, today faces a maximum sentence of five years in the penitentiary.

The nattily dressed youth was charged in an indictment with having brought Della Wills, 18, formerly of Roanoke, Va., to Washington, for immoral purposes, and a jury of twelve men who heard the girl's story from the witness stand deliberated only ten minutes before returning a guilty verdict.

Miss Wills testified she had turned over to Shropshire approximately $200 during her stay in the Capital before he returned her to Roanoke. She then declared she wished to return here and when she did she met Shropshire again.

Her testimony then showed he had slapped her and she ran into the street, where two motorcycle policemen were attracted by her weeping. To them, she said, she detailed her story, and the arrest of the youth followed shortly afterwards. He has since been in District Jail, having been unable to place the necessary bond.

Another indictment, charging a like offense with another girl, has been returned against Shropshire. Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica, who prosecuted Shropshire, declared yesterday he was undecided as to another trial. Denny Hughes represented the defendant, who probably will be called up before Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, who tried the case, for sentence Friday.

Changes to Be Considered at Session of District Commissioners.

Proposed tightening of restrictions against advertising signs in certain particulars will be the subject of a public hearing to be held on April 5 in the District board room by the District Commissioners.

Further restrictions against erection of new signs on the side walls of buildings also are proposed.

DARBY INDICTMENT IN SUPREME COURT

Charges Against Rockville Cashier Placed Before High Tribunal.

(Associated Press.)

The Government yesterday asked the Supreme Court to uphold the indictment which charged John G. Darby, assistant cashier of the Montgomery National Bank, at Rockville, Md., with making false entries in the bank's books.

Whitney North Seymour, of Government counsel, contended the Federal district court of Maryland erred in quashing the indictment on the ground the offense charged did not constitute making a false entry.

The trial court held the offense charged by the Government if proven would constitute misapplication of the funds of the bank. Seymour insisted the entry in the bank's books of a note by Darby, which purported to have been signed also by Mrs. Bessie D. Darby, constituted making a false entry. The attorney said Darby knew the signature was not that of Mrs. Darby.

Lucien H. Mercier, counsel for Darby, said Darby's offense constituted a misapplication of funds if the Government could sustain its charge and asserted the indictment should have been for that offense.

U.S. Voids $107,492 Tax Bill in Lynchburg Case

(Associated Press.)

Commissioner Burnet of the Internal Revenue Bureau decided yesterday that the Lynchburg Cotton Mill Co., of Lynchburg, Va., does not have to pay $107,492 income and profits tax assessed against it for the year 1918.

The overassessment was determined, Burnet said, because the deficiency was satisfied by a transferee of the property.

For only by blending and cross-blending the right amounts of mild Domestic tobaccos with the right amount of Turkish can we get the flavor and aroma that Chesterfield smokers enjoy.

FINE PUBLIC SPIRIT.

The people have responded magnificently to the new banking regime. Public confidence seems to be not only re-established, but enthusiastic in expectation of increased business. President Roosevelt's bold strokes have been applauded throughout the country as the beginning of national recovery.

The opening of the New York stock exchange and minor markets will be watched with intense interest today, as furnishing a possible barometer of the trend of finance and business after the unprecedented events of the last 10 days.

Passage of the Robinson bill granting facilities to conservators of banks to obtain loans from the R. F. C. and the Federal Reserve liberalizes the process whereby banks may reopen on a sound basis. Although this legislation has provoked criticism on the ground that it gives State banks advantages without imposing upon them the responsibilities carried by members of the Federal Reserve system, there seems to be no danger that currency will be handed over without adequate security. The Comptroller of the Currency retains control of the situation.

The reopened banks are rushed with accumulations of checks and other business that had piled up during the holiday, but they are functioning well, and depositors are transacting routine business as usual. The United States is emerging from a gigantic crisis with such buoyancy of spirit that it might be imagined that the American people have actually enjoyed the experience. At any rate, they feel better, and all signs point to a mighty step forward in the battle with the depression.

REMOVE CAUSE OF PANIC.

Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the last seven months of the Hoover administration, reminds Congress that one of the primary causes of the gold panic has not been removed. Like many other distinguished men who had their finger on the financial pulse of the Nation during its most serious crisis, Mr. Pomerene is convinced that the publication of the names of banks receiving loans from the R. F. C. was an important factor in bringing about the collapse of the banking structure.

"It was the most damnable and vicious thing that was ever done," said Mr. Pomerene. "It almost counteracted all the good we had been able to do."

Mr. Pomerene's statement is especially effective because it is not actuated by partisanship. He is a Democrat. In spite of the fact that Vice President Garner is responsible for the publicity clause in the R. F. C. act, many distinguished members of that party are demanding its repeal. Among them are Alfred E. Smith.

Congress ought not to adjourn without repealing the provision under which these confidential reports have been given to a hysterical public. Mr. Garner is apparently determined to continue releasing R. F. C. reports in spite of what may happen to the banks. The new program of building confidence can not be complete so long as this threat hangs over every institution that may find it convenient to borrow funds from the R. F. C. Before another report is sent to the Capitol Congress should make certain that loans to banks shall not be broadcast to unsettle the public mind once more.

DEALING WITH JAPAN.

The Secretary of State has taken wise action by accepting the invitation of the League of Nations' advisory committee to cooperate in its work pertaining to the Sino-Japanese dispute. The American representative will be instructed, however, not to vote, or to bind the United States in any way to decisions that may be made by the committee.

Japan objected to the presence of American and Russian members of the conciliation committee that was to be set up by the League of Nations. The advisory committee, while composed of the same members, will have a different function. Since Japan repudiates the jurisdiction of the committee or the league and is about to give notice of withdrawal from the league, its approval or disapproval of American cooperation cuts no figure.

The advisory committee is keeping a close watch on Far Eastern developments. It represents the nations of the world, which "can not regard with indifference the development of the Sino-Japanese dispute." The United States can not be indifferent to the violation of treaties to which it is a party, and which recognize its rights. All the nations are refusing to recognize the Manchukuo regime. Without their acceptance of this regime the Japanese government will be handicapped, perhaps totally, in keeping the phantom government alive. Bold annexation of Manchuria to Japan may be forthcoming; but while the world's nations may not forcibly resist Japan's seizure of Chinese territory, they can and will do much to make Japan's adventure extremely costly. That nation must trade; it must have credit; it wishes to enjoy the advantages of commercial and other treaties; it can not but hope to hold an honored place in the family of nations. Yet it runs the risk of forfeiting commerce, credit, and other advantages, the loss of which can not be made up by any gains in Manchuria.

The United States reserves the right to act independently in dealing with this great problem. It does well, however, to consult with other nations.

BEER AND THE BUDGET.

Prompt passage of the beer bill by the House may be taken as an assurance that the Senate will do likewise. The prospect of considerable revenue from beer encourages quick action as a step toward balancing the budget. Additional taxes by the States may be laid on too heavily, thereby diminishing consumption and reducing the national revenue from this source. Beer must be kept at 5 cents a glass, with not too stingy a glass, if it is to yield great revenue. The amount of internal revenue from beer is usually estimated at $150,000,000.

The economy bill now pending in the Senate can reduce expenditures by $400,000,000. Bureau consolidations and departmental economies may save $75,000,000 more. The gasoline tax is a good revenue producer. Some of the legislators believe that the budget can be practically balanced without levying additional taxes. They have not yet produced figures in detail to support their opinion.

President Roosevelt may surprise the country by asking for additional economies.

TO PROTECT DEPOSITORS.

Congress is already at work on the tremendous task of recasting the national banking structure. Legislation passed last week was designed merely to cope with the existing emergency. But Congress has recognized the weakness of the banking system, as revealed by this crisis, and permanent legislation of a sweeping character can be expected to take form before the extra session concludes its work.

Senator Glass reintroduced his bill which was passed by the Senate a few weeks ago but failed of enactment in the House. It will again be studied by a subcommittee and some changes and additions may be made as a result of the recent banking difficulties. The branch-banking section may be liberalized so that strong institutions may absorb some of the weaker banks and thus avoid a repetition of the bank-failure epidemic which has afflicted the United States for at least ten years. When defunct banks have been liquidated under President Roosevelt's program, many communities may be left entirely without banking facilities. Branch banking will be essential to allow strong banks to extend their operations to such localities.

Senator McAdoo, of California, is also making his voice heard in the banking situation. He has introduced a bill to indemnify depositors in closed banks. Mr. McAdoo insists that his scheme would not be a guarantee of bank deposits, as that term has come to be understood, but it would be a very similar arrangement. Most plans to guarantee deposits would create a liability on the part of the Government. The McAdoo scheme would create a liability on the part of the banks. Depositors in suspended banks would be paid out of an indemnity fund to be accumulated by assessment of all member banks in the Federal Reserve system.

Safeguards against unsound banking have not been overlooked by Mr. McAdoo. He would give the Federal Reserve Board much greater power over member banks than it has ever had. The board would be authorized to remove officers and directors of member banks, and, to take over and operate such banks in case of necessity. This provision would be relied upon to prevent crooked and inefficient bankers from indulging in loose practices and relying upon the "indemnity fund" for payment of their depositors.

If strict regulations and frequent inspections can prevent fraud and incompetence in banks, there will be no need for any guarantee of deposits by either the banks or the Government. If Congress abolishes bucket shops and puts the banks on a solid foundation, public confidence will not be lacking. Strong, well-inspected banks are their own guarantee. Regardless of the safeguards that Congress might throw around a banking group, some members of the group would be inclined to lax banking if their deposits were guaranteed. Any socialistic venture must reckon with the individuals who prefer to ride all the time and do none of the pulling.

A wiser plan would be to create strong banks and let them stand on their own feet. Rigid supervision by the Federal Reserve Board would be sufficient to protect depositors if a sound banking policy were once adopted. The situation can not be cured by smearing insolvency through the whole banking system. Let the institutions that are unsound be liquidated, with rigid provisions that no more banks of the bucket-shop variety shall be established. Then give the Federal Reserve Board and the Comptroller of the Currency power to force national banks to maintain their solvency.

SAFE RAIL TRAVEL.

Since thousands of persons are killed in automobile accidents every year it would seem the part of wisdom that motorists' organizations should establish a research system to study means of reducing this excessive toll, such as is carried on by the American Railway Engineering Association. This group is given much credit for the remarkable record of safety that recent years have shown for travel on American railroads.

During the first eleven months of last year only one person was killed in a train accident. When it is considered that 441,000,000 passengers were carried it is a remarkable record, particularly when the length of the average journey is also taken into consideration. If all passengers had been traveling but one mile their corresponding number would amount to more than 15,000,000,000.

The engineering association has for thirty-five years devoted a large part of its work to perfecting the safety of travel. Notwithstanding the progress that has been made it is unremitting in its efforts to perfect materials and methods. A fund of $250,000 jointly contributed by roads and manufacturers has been made available for the continuation of special research work at the University of Illinois.

The continued improvement of the quality of rails has been responsible for notable decreases in accidents. In 1930 1,142 train accidents were charged to rail failures. In 1931 this figure had been reduced to 251. The difficulty of locating hidden flaws in rails has been met by a "detector car," which can locate dangerous transverse fissures as small as 3 per cent of the head area of the rail.

The problems presented by automobile operation and the 30,000 fatalities every year are very different from those of the railroad, but concerted scientific study of remedies is the soundest means of cutting down this appalling loss of life.

Another encouraging thing about the end of the bank holiday is that political job hunters can now return home and live with their relatives for four more years.

Rumblings of the California earthquake were heard in London by phone, and Washington can hear rumblings from Berlin, Warsaw and Tokyo.

Great Britain lifts her arms embargo on China and Japan. Tomorrow she may apologize for having inconvenienced the belligerents.

Hoarders have a few days to empty their safety deposit boxes. For those who fail to do so Uncle Sam has some safety deposit lock-ups.

President Roosevelt will be entitled to a 100 per cent batting average as soon as he makes the farmer prosperous.

True economy is so strange to the Senate that a little acquaintance is necessary before indulging in an embrace.

When President Roosevelt gets time we hope he'll shake that big stick at the starlings.

Having overcome the jitters, the country can now settle down to its jig-saw puzzles.

RAPID WRITING

From the Providence Journal.

Prof. Ewing, of the University of California, has just been reminding us that one of the obstacles to Trollope's early fame was the fact that he wrote his novels at the rate of a thousand words an hour. The public, having learned of his literary habits, assumed that he must be a mere automaton and his work not worth reading. It was a foolish assumption, as Trollope's later and continuing fame proves, but it was perhaps a not unnatural one.

The brilliant Sheridan said that "easy writing's curst hard reading," and the saying is often ascribed to Byron with a still stronger adjective. But, with full deference to these authorities, it makes all the difference in the world who the writer is. The word "easy" is deceptive. There is the ease of a naturally gifted writer, or one who, through long self-discipline, has acquired the art of making his second thoughts, or even his third thoughts, come first. The ease can only be judged by the writer himself. Speed, however, can be estimated by anyone, and this is what appears to have been the basis of the charge against Trollope.

There is no evidence to show that Trollope would have written better if he had written only a third as fast—about the contents of a standard typewritten page in an hour. Shakespeare poured out his marvelous plays at the rate of two a year. Ibsen took two years to compose one of his closely knit but far less inspired plays. Sensible old Dr. Johnson put the whole matter on a very simple and satisfactory basis when he advised the young writer to train himself to write rapidly. There is more in this advice than a mere saving of time. It meant that the writer should summon all his powers to the task in hand, that he should key his mind up to its highest tension. Such a state amounts to a working substitute for inspiration. In it the mind acts not only rapidly but also more effectively. It was such a control over his mental powers that Trollope possessed. We may well believe that he wrote all the better for writing rapidly. The young writer may not be a Trollope or a Dr. Johnson, but he will do his work better for taking a leaf out of their practice-book.

REDISCOVERED JOYS.

Well, anyhow, when dinner's done
We two can share the children's fun,
And after they are put to bed
We've many a book which can be read,
Or till our own bedtime shall come
We'll play a friendly game of rhum.
So long it seems we've been away
We have forgotten how to play.
We have forgotten friendly books
And knights and castles, pawns and rooks.
Where is that set which we possess?
Let's learn if we can still play chess!
'Twas good to know you still can bake
So excellent a chocolate cake.
I would have sworn until right now,
My dear, that you'd forgotten how.
I'll bet you smiled to burn once more
Your knuckles on the oven door.
Well, we have had our lavish fling,
But now if shall the doorbell ring
We'll know it is a friend who calls.
What's more, within these sheltering walls
We'll find that countless joys abide
Which formerly we'd thrust aside.

A Hired Hand Is a Liability if He Eats More Than He Produces

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE easy way to measure the merit of any proposition is to carry it out to its logical conclusion and see how it ends.

It is conceded that the natural wage of a man is the whole worth of anything he can produce by his own unaided efforts.

But as a rule there is a division of labor, each man doing the thing he can do best. Thus one man digs the bait, another makes the hooks and lines and a third does the fishing.

Yet all three are engaged in the business of catching fish. And when the fish are sold each is entitled to a third of the money they bring. Isn't that right?

Suppose one man saves his money and buys a boat and a net to catch more fish with less effort. Has he the right to do that?

Then suppose he makes an arrangement with ten men, saying to each: "I will furnish the boat and the net and find a market for the fish. You do the fishing, and when your catch is sold I will divide the money equally between us."

Has he a right to do that?

If he has a right to save his money, establish a business and hire ten men, then he must have equal right to hire a thousand. And he must have equal right to invest his increase in other businesses, until he owns passenger boats, railways, canning plants and chair factories all over the land.

Now let's begin at the other end.

Has any man in a free country the right to own all property—all land, all buildings, all factories, all banks?

Surely not. The principle is wrong. The land would no longer be free. There would be no competition. The man would be a monarch and all others would be virtual slaves.

But you conceded that any man had the right to accumulate property. Then how much of the whole has he the right to accumulate? Three-fourths? Half? A fourth?

Well, a man has a right to carry a knife if the blade isn't too long. If the blade is too long, the knife becomes a concealed weapon and the man is a menace.

At some point every great fortune begins to grow faster than the increase can be spent. Thereafter it grows by absorbing others—as a forest tree, having filled its space, can branch out only by shading and killing smaller trees.

The time to stop anything is when it becomes a menace. And any field crop is a pest if it spreads and chokes out all of the others.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Readjusting Debts.

Topeka Capital.

By the bill now proposed to help farm debtors and railroads, these debtors will not go deeper into debt in order to borrow themselves out. It is based on the suggestion that accommodations may be effected with creditors that the farm borrower will be able, if not too heavily involved, to agree with his creditors upon some basis of scaling down either principal or interest or both. In the case of railroads the plan is similar. If the railroad can reach an agreement with its bondholders and other creditors, it will avoid receivership by scaling down its capital structure and obtaining a new start on a lower capitalization of bonds and stocks, or both, with substantially reduced interest charges.

Had this plan instead of the borrowing plan through the R. F. C. and Government credit been adopted two years ago the situation today would be better. Nobody could foresee events, however; it was believed that the credit breakdown was less fundamental than it actually turned out to be.

Consolidated Action.

Boston Transcript.

Organization of the whole country, by the whole country and for the whole country has been effected in this hour of national distress which yet presages better things. The incredible has happened. The unprecedented spectacle of 48 governors pledging their States in support of a Federal administration to which the people are willing to intrust unlimited powers has been witnessed. The dream of the National Economy League, under Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, has come true.

As far back as October 12, the advisory committee of the league issued an address calling for united effort throughout the country to reduce the cost of all governments, national State and local, to eliminate non-governmental appendages and to balance all budgets.

Two Requisites.

New York Herald Tribune.

If the weak spots in the banking structure are removed and if some definite assurance is afforded that the Federal budget will be balanced in the not distant future, the groundwork will have been laid for a sound and orderly rise of prices through business recovery. The alternative is inflation, induced by the destruction of world confidence in the American currency. This is not only an unsound alternative; it is one that is totally uncalled for in the case of a Nation of the enormous gold supplies and the favorable trade balance that this Nation boasts.

Observations of a Bank Depositor—Wants Safety-First Savings Banks to Hold Savings Without Interest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am one of a million or so bank depositors who don't pretend to know much about banking. On that account I may be wrong in the way I look at it. But it seems to me that Henry Ford, as I have seen him reported, has a good common-sense idea, when he says that there should be a separate place in the banking system where poor people who so desire could deposit their rainy-day savings "for safekeeping" only.

A good many of the savings depositors get a nice kick out of 2, 3 or 4 per cent on a bank account. It makes prouder citizens of them, and that is a good thing. But I guess a large majority of them are like myself and on thinking it over right now would renig on the interest in favor of safety first as a sure thing for their little emergency savings.

On this kind of deposits without interest banks would have what you can call a rake-off to begin with. Of course they could not expect to grow from little acorns into tall oaks like some of the big concerns which are just now bending to the financial storm. But within their proper limits their safety would be a sure thing and their profits satisfactory to any but get-rich-quick bankers. And besides the withdrawal of funds to be spent for living expenses in case of hard times would be a blessing to the community instead of something to be guarded against and forbidden as in the case of the more or less commercialized savings banks with which we are familiar.

In Funk & Wagnall's Standard Encyclopedia of Universal Knowledge it says in regard to bank deposits:

"Persons who desire interest must, as a rule, be content to surrender something of the absolute and immediate control over their funds. In such cases they patronize the savings banks or the loan and trust companies rather than the national bank. In these institutions various plans are adopted to restrain the depositor from making sudden calls for his deposit."

Savings banks and trust companies are a great help to business, especially when business conditions are bright. But I don't think keeping all the savings of the small-sum depositors tied up in that way is a good thing for the public welfare.

We get the name "bank" from the German "bank", (French, banque; Italian, banca), a bench, a table for changing money. I suppose the "money changers" you read about in the Bible ran that kind of a bank. The encyclopedia says, "The modern banker is a dealer in credit, while in ancient times the so-called banker was a mere custodian of the funds of others and a buyer and seller of foreign moneys."

So long as he is a capable and honest custodian of the funds of others the modern commercial and investment banker is all right. But I think it would be better if in modern banking we had a few custodians for the mere safekeeping of funds of the common people, in which case when there was a financial slump there would be enough free-spending money lying around loose to keep the retail business of the country jogging along while big business was getting its second breath.

Perhaps it could not be done right away. But later on I think it would be a good thing for Congress to study the Henry Ford idea so as to provide for the encouragement of safety-first savings deposits. Something like the postal savings banks of the act of 1910 might do, with their present limit on deposits and perhaps some red tape got rid of.

Billions of dollars would be entrusted to such institutions. Their depositors would be mostly from the large section of the American people which is made up of cheerful spenders. I have not a bit of doubt that whenever there was a slowing up of business and money began to get tight, the liquid emergency funds of these deposit-for-safekeeping banks would, with only a slight temporary dent in the profits of the bankers, make it much easier to stave off or tide over a year or so of hard times than under present conditions.

Federal Reserve System Has Carried Country Through War—Questions It Now.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When the Federal Reserve bill was passed during the early days of the first Wilson administration, we were solemnly assured that never again would the United States experience a money shortage.

That system was strong enough to carry us through the greatest war the world has ever known without panic and without the slightest monetary inconvenience.

Why has it failed us through this depression?

Is it because our economic system is faulty and because no banking system, however excellent, can overcome an inherently unsound economic order? BEN W. BURGER.

Cites Great Britain's Experience With Communist Propaganda After Recognizing Soviet.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The recognition of the Russian government by that of Great Britain in 1924 was followed soon by the arrival of the Russian Embassy.

It was but a short time before many of the members of the Russian delegation, taking advantage of diplomatic immunity, were sowing seeds of sedition in the army and navy and stirring unrest among workers in other fields.

Only childlike credulity believes the disavowal of the Third International by Russian propaganda. J. E. T.

MARYLAND SENATE DEBATES SALARIES

Deadlock Over Judiciary Cut Continues; House Votes Chain-Store Tax.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 14.—A battle of oratory in the Senate over the proposal to reduce salaries of members of the judiciary 25 per cent and adoption of a favorable report by the House on the bill placing a special tax on chain stores, following debate, enlivened today's session of Maryland General Assembly.

The Senate remained in a deadlock over the judges' salary bill after a session prolonged throughout the afternoon as the result of an impassioned plea by Senator J. Alan Coad (Democrat), St. Mary's County, author of the bill, to prevent the adoption of an unfavorable report from the judicial proceedings committee of which Senator S. Scott Beck, Kent County, is chairman.

Pay Deadlock Continues.

Three votes finally were taken, one on the motion to substitute, another on the adoption of the report, and the third to recommit the measure for further consideration, but in each instance the result was a tie at 14 to 14, so, under parliamentary procedure, the bill was carried over as unfinished business.

Argument over the bill hinged on whether or not the assembly has constitutional authority to reduce such salaries. Senator Coad took the affirmative view, while Senator Beck spoke in defense of the report, and several other senators argued in behalf of both points. Beck urged that the constitution specifically prohibits decreasing salaries of the judiciary, though inferentially permits increasing them, which has been done twice in the last 30 years, and that the only way a cut could be effected would be through a constitutional amendment, ratified by the people. Against this Coad contended that the measure is an economy proposal and would save the State $70,000 annually, and that there is nothing to prohibit the reduction when practically every salaried State official, except those whose pay is regulated by the constitution, is to suffer a cut by eliminating allowances in the governor's budget.

Chain Store Tax Voted.

The House adopted the favorable report on the chain store tax bill by a vote of 93 to 14, notwithstanding a strenuous effort to amend it to include cooperative stores. Delegate Benson, Baltimore County, led the fight for the amendment, as well as against the report, while Delegate Baldwin, also Baltimore County, defended the report.

The proposed tax would be on the following scale: From 2 to 5 stores, $5 each; 5 to 10, $20 each; 10 to 20, $100 each; over 20, $150 each.

New Jersey Passes Bill To Help Alimony Payers

Trenton, N. J., March 14 (A.P.).—Alimony payers today found hope in a bill passed by the Assembly which would permit New Jersey courts to adjust alimony payments in cases where divorced wives remarried.

Assemblywoman Trube, sponsoring the bill, said some men are unfairly burdened with alimony payments, mentioning that divorced women often married men who were better able to provide for them than their former husbands.

Mr. Charles Cecil, jr., was best man and the ushers were Mr. Linwood Donalson, Mr. Walter Howard, Mr. Sam McKenney and Mr. Warren Taylor.

BILL WOULD CHANGE BLADENSBURG VOTE

Another Maryland Proposal Seeks to Let Somerset Borrow Money.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 14.—Changes in regulations governing qualification of voters and election of the commissioners for the Town of Bladensburg are embraced in a bill introduced by the Prince Georges County delegation in the House today. The measure fixes one-year residence rule to vote for three commissioners, and candidates for these posts must be residents of the community for at least three years and own not less than $300 in property.

Delegate Farrington, of Montgomery County, sponsored a bill authorizing the mayor and council of Somerset to borrow money on certificates of indebtedness, not to exceed 1 per cent of the taxable basis of the community, to meet current expenses. The council would be empowered to levy for the payment of the debt in installments of one-third, but at no time shall the tax rate exceed $1.

Anticipating repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Delegate Matthews, Charles County, proposed certain revisions of the county liquor law. Under the bill, hotels and restaurants would be permitted to make sales, and the license fee therefor would be $250 annually. Violation would be punishable by a minimum fine of $25, and not more than $500, or a prison term of 3 to 12 months, or both, in the discretion of the convicting tribunal.

The Frederick County delegation presented a bill empowering the county commissioners to appoint an attorney at $500 annual salary, with the additional stipend of $25 per day for services in actions in the County Circuit Court or Court of Appeals. Another Frederick County measure is designed to revise and extend provisions of existing law governing the county auditing committee, and placing the sheriff's office, along with other departments of the county government, to be audited annually.

The Federal Relations Committee of the House voted to return a favorable report on the resolution to Congress for ratification of the Geneva treaty making the United States a member of the World Court. Mrs. Harvey Wiley, of Washington, was among a group before the committee today in favor of the resolution.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mommie: I went driving this afternoon with a girl who lives in New York, but originally came from Virginia. She told me she came out here last summer while she was expecting a child, thinking that if she got her divorce then her husband could not be awarded part custody of a child that did not exist. But she was too sick to stay, and now she has just returned with a little new baby. The agreement now stands that her husband has the child (a boy) whom he has never even seen, for three months each year, beginning with the time he is 2.

Last night I dined with Aileen Rutherford and two very nice Englishmen in her apartment. And we played bridge. Tomorrow I am going to the Willows with one of them, a Mr. Black, for dinner. He says the Indians here have fascinated him. As he hurried right through from the boat to Reno, I suppose he thinks all American city streets are frequented by squaws carrying papooses on their backs like you see on the main thoroughfare in Reno. His 42 days are up next Sunday, and he is going back to London, and returning here at the end of the 40 days he has to wait for the default decree. You know you don't have to stay in Nevada during that time (just appear for one day), as you are already a resident of the State after the 42 days. He has two sons in college in England and his wife promised to sign before he left, and he gave her a lot of money, and now she has broken her word.

He is very philosophical about it but says he will never go back to her. He has waited until his boys are grown, and has settled money on them too, and now he says he is no longer young and that the rest of his life belongs to himself. He really seems like a dear and I am sure the trouble must have been his wife's fault. The other Englishman I didn't like so well. He said his wife is twelve years older than he and "as fine a woman as ever lived" but she wanted to make "an old man of him" and he couldn't stand it any longer. It is surprising how many English people there are out here and they all tell their story just like anybody else. Literally no one can resist at some moment during the long weeks and months of waxing confidential. And an hour later everyone in Reno knows it. I asked Mr. Black how he heard of Reno, and he said his London lawyer had sent a number of clients out here—that the English laws were like New York's—adultery the only grounds. I have learned that men will go to any ends not to have a divorce on those grounds. They say it reflects on the children and why should they admit a crime which they have not committed. And less innocent husbands seem to feel just as strongly. The money they will spend if they want a divorce to avoid those grounds! I must say it has surprised me, as I didn't think men cared so much about their reputations along that line.

Yesterday when I played tennis with Aileen I used an old and borrowed racket (I didn't bring mine) and today she sent me a Mary K. Browne for a present. She is the nicest person! The chaperon is taking a course at the university and has met several women and so is not much in the way any more. I often eat in her apartment just as I used to do with Claire (Aileen doesn't like the food downstairs), and, funny to say, she has the same apartment Claire had just two doors down the hall from my room. Aileen's father gave a million dollars last year to charity and hasn't ridden in anything but a private car for years, yet here she is doing most of her own cooking. We have learned together about putting butter in the pan, and that boiling water evaporates and burns a hole in the kettle. Now we can cook chops and asparagus and peas. We tried fried tomatoes, but they didn't take. How does one get a crust on them? ELIZABETH.

The Meanderer

After Days of Being Practical, Comes the Charm of the "Things I Have Always Wanted."

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

The Heppelwhite chair, finished in brocade patterned with nosegays; the Georgian candlesticks; the colonial rocker of maple; the exquisite embroidery and filet table linen; the reproductions of early American glassware; a hanging bookcase of walnut; a little swinging mirror for a dressing table; a faultless living room lamp with a hobnail base; the wall-leaf table—these and many other things precious to homemakers—have been listed in a special place in the Meanderer's note book for days when we feel like indulging in "the things I have always wanted." Now that financial foundations have been restored there should be nothing to hinder gratification of this love of beautiful things for our homes. Buying when buying is within our honest power is patriotic conduct right now.

Hand-carved mahogany makes the back of the Heppelwhite chair that captured the Meanderer's gaze in a furniture and decorating shop on G street. The background of the brocade covering the chair seat is deep brown and the nosegay patterns—small though they are—stand out brightly. Never has a chair of this authentic kind of reproduction sold so reasonably.

Stately Georgian candlesticks of silver, made after the manner of famous early day silversmiths, are selling at low prices in a removal sale. The shop on G street selling the candlesticks and many other pieces of silver, much fine china and antique furniture, is moving April 1, and will sell the much-wanted articles at sacrifice prices until that time.

A small size, appealingly fashioned colonial rocker of maple costs but $20 in the furniture department of an F street department store.

Pure heavy linen, embroidered with cutwork design, and trimmed with filet lace, is offered in a set of a tablecloth, 72 by 90 inches, and a dozen napkins, 18 inches square, for $13.95. The beautiful big cloth is said to have 31,000 carefully embroidered eyelets in its cutwork design. This linen value, such as come only rarely, is found in the vast linen department of a big store on F street, where discriminating women like to shop.

How many lovers of old glass who can not pay the prices for genuine old glass know that faithful reproductions of such ware are extremely reasonable? For 25 cents each, occasionally for less, goblets, tumblers, sherbets, &c., well reproduced from old designs; glassware that may well be given proud places in any cupboard, sells from the shelves of a Connecticut avenue store's china department. The shelves there are long and well-stocked and the courteous assistance the salespeople give customers is helpful indeed. "Oh, the idea!" exclaimed a woman customer, obviously a glass connoisseur. "That wine bottle is exactly like one that belonged to Gen. Sheridan—one that some one I know wouldn't take a fortune for." That is not an unusual reaction for a customer looking over such wares.

The hanging bookcase of walnut may be had for $5 in the well-stocked furniture section of an F street department store. Nearby is a small, well-designed swinging mirror, meant for chests or dressing tables, that costs only $1.75.

The living room lamp with the hobnail base and brass frame in graceful Georgian finish has a pleated silk shade, so that it may have harmony in any interior, not necessarily in period restriction. So may the wall leaf, Queen Anne table that held the lamp, both showing in a furniture and decorating shop on G street.

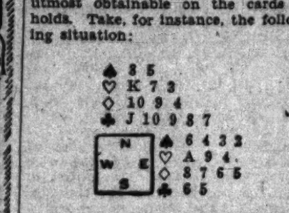
METHODS OF PLAY.

THE time factor in the play of a hand at Bridge works with inexorable precision. Whether the final declaration is a suit or no-trump, the race is generally to the swift. Particularly is this true when it is a question of whether the defending side will be able to establish low-card tricks before the Declarer is able to establish his long suit. The result, in this maneuver for position, based entirely upon the time factor, usually determines the success or failure of the contract. Every player instinctively realizes the part played by time in the play of the hand. In every deal there are thirteen time-units or hours, and this element of time must be used to the best advantage if a player is to realize the utmost obtainable on the cards he holds. Take, for instance, the following situation:



South is the Declarer at a contract of three notrump. West's Opening lead is the Queen of Spades, upon which Dummy plays the 5 and East the 4. The Declarer wins the trick with the Ace and leads the King, Queen and a small club. West refuses to win until the third round and then returns the Knave of spades. On this East plays the 3 and South the 7. West leads another spade and drives out South's King. In an effort to establish an entry in Dummy, South now leads the Queen of hearts, which East allows to win. The Knave of hearts them follows, but again East refuses to win the trick. When the heart suit is continued once more, East is forced to win. What should be his line of play? He holds the spade 2 and three diamonds and he knows that West has an established card in spades. Should he lead that suit, however, South will make his contract, as he will discard a diamond and West will be forced to lead into the major tenace in diamonds at the eleventh trick. East should visualize this situation. He must know that his partner, if he holds the diamond King, will be caught in an end play. If he holds the Ace, it makes no difference, while if he holds neither the Ace nor the King the contract can not be defeated. Obviously East must lead a diamond. The Declarer may go up with the Ace and cash the last heart trick, but he must then concede the last two tricks to West.

The play is a simple one, but is very frequently missed, even by those who consider themselves good players. The complete hand is:

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

DOG TO MATCH SPRING COSTUME

A dog to complete the costume may be popular this spring. At any rate Miss Jane Bishop appeared at a New York benefit style show with a dog trimmed to match her spring ensemble.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Rabbit's-hair cloth is new, light weight and lovely. This beige and brown mixture has an underblouse of orange jersey, belt, buttons and buckle of brown, and an orange and brown crepe scarf. (A Dah-ray design.)

I HAVE already told you about the new fuzzy cloth that is made from rabbits' hair, but I must tell you again that these fabrics are particularly smart for this spring, and that they give a warmth that is pleasing; a sort of porous warmth, it is, which is cool as well as warm—seemingly whatever you want whenever you want it!

This rabbits'-hair material disguises itself under different names—often as unintelligible to the salesman or woman as to the customer. But you can be safe in just asking for "rabbits' hair" material.

These rabbits' hair fabrics are very smart when combined with plaid silk taffeta and crepe—this in the form of trimming only, and not in the body of the costume. Or as a blouse. Particularly chic is the plaid taffeta blouse with a suit of this material, and when the blouse seems darker than the mixture that makes the fabric of the suit, then one is in luck!

The rabbits'-hair fabrics are procurable in all the good plain colors, beige and gray, navy and brown—and in checks and stripes. Checks are awfully smart this spring, you know. And there are the knitted weaves, too, which are very smart in rabbitts' hair.

• • • •

Have you the bedspread you want and like on every single bed or couch in your home? If not, why not—when I have designed a half-dozen totally different ones for you of every imaginable type, all easily made in your spare finger time—and from remnants or scraps or leftovers or whatever you have or want?

It's a need, I think—at least, that's why I made this leaflet. And if you but take the time to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the new bedspread leaflet, I think you will decide it is a need, too. And you can put the leaflet away if you want to for a day when you will have either more time or more pennies—although you need very little of the latter. Just send for the leaflet and see.

• • • •

How would you like to have the dress I designed for you today—in rabbitts'-hair wool, say in a soft new gray, or a beige, if you are partial to beige? Yes, let's say beige, because it lends itself so well to the brown buttons, the brown belt and the half brown of the scarf. Then the blouse—the glimpse of it we see, that is—and the scarf must be orange, this orange, being so smart this season and going so well with beige and brown. Nit your skirt seems to be somewhat precariously attached to your belero with a brown buckle, think nothing of it, because this is just the effect and not the actuality! The skirt is well sewn to the blouse, front and back.

Au revoir.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:15 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

You may be called upon on this day to make a decision of some importance; delay this action if you can until you have had ample opportunity to check all data given you. You will probably think your clearest and best in the privacy of your own home.

The child born on this March 15 will be inclined to have a boisterous and arrogant nature. If he is a boy he will be somewhat of a bully. These children will tend more toward indoor activities for both work and pleasure, than toward activities that will take them out into the open.

If March 15 is the date of your birth, you must guard yourself against giving way too much to your inclinations to ponder about and to puzzle over the world of spirit. It is quite possible that you have strange mediumistic or occult powers, but these should not be allowed to operate to your detriment or discomfort or to interfere with your present existence. You are a religious person. You are inclined to be superstitious and there would seem to be a good deal of fear in your general make-up.

George C. Chase, educator.

THE NEW Jelleff's 1216-1220 F STREET

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Comedians frequently appear morose offstage (doubtless the Pagliacci complex mingled with the invariable wish of clowns to play Hamlet), and Fred Allen is no exception.

Fred, who was the humorous wheelhorse in both the first "Little Show" and "Three's a Crowd," seems to get more pessimistic as things become better. His friends jest with him about it, declaring that if everything should be for once absolutely right, he would leap from the nearest window, making a hasty wise-crack at each floor he passed in his descent.

Adversity's Fortune.

It is when things go wrong that he has legitimate opportunity to open wide the throttle of his caustic wit and be grandly carbolic.

Few performers worry as much as he does, and if he missed a usual laugh in "The Little Show," for example, he would worry about his beginning to slide as one of our ranking comedians.

When he put on a pound or so he started to go daily to the gymnasium, only to discover that the routine added to his weight, and made him more nervous than usual.

Allen once worked in the Boston Public Library, and is really fond of books, but his ambition is to be a writer.

He has written many vaudeville acts and has furnished other comedians with plenty of material (for some of which he has been paid, while others simply pilfer his gags and wisecracks); and he also writes his own.

His happiest moment was when he sold an article to a magazine a year ago, and he was prouder of the small check it brought than he was of the weekly one of $1,500 he drew from "Three's a Crowd."

The Real Mazuma.

As a matter of fact, while that was his salary, he was paid in cash—which is another one of his peculiarities. Usually big theatrical salaries are paid by check (out of town, by New York draft or cashier's check), but Fred prefers real money.

It probably dates back to his early days as a juggler in vaudeville, working spasmodically, when, if you did get a $50 check for three days' work of five performances a day, you couldn't find a place that cashed checks; or, if you could, yours usually wasn't any good.

As for odd names of thoroughfares in New York, I give you these: Dutch street, Mulberry street, Great Jones street, Navy avenue, Navy street, Echo place, Radio drive, Waterloo place, Villa avenue, Peck Slip, Oscobel place, Maiden Lane, Gansevoort street, Jersey street, Pilgrim avenue, Outlook terrace, Coenties Slip, Ziphers place.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A PHYSICIAN who has always been frail and very much under weight, who has had stomach trouble since childhood, is now 80 years old and gives every indication of being good for at least another ten years. At fourscore he is equal to a good day's work, and proves it by delivering the goods six days weekly. His is the physical type that lives to great old age.

During all of his adult life he has thought out his living plans and, having come to a conclusion as to what was best for him to do, he has stuck to his charted course with very few variations.

Among his rules of life, the following relate to eating:

1. Never overeat.

2. Reject highly condimented and excessively sweetened foods. Salt is almost the only normal condiment for starchy foods—and many use far too much salt.

3. Reject very greasy foods. Fat is too concentrated to be eaten in large quantities. Since sugar has become such an abundane ingredient of our dietary we do not need much fat.

4. Reject complicated mixtures. He thinks the cow sets us a good example. She gives up several hours a day to placid chewing of food and she produces large quantities of milk and simultaneously keeps in a good state of nutrition.

The human animal can not give so many hours to chewing, but he can approach the cow standard more nearly than we do. Fletcher had the right idea, but, not being a cow, he killed himself trying to carry it out. He disapproves of drinking and even of talking in the course of a meal.

These are his first principales of eating:

1. Moderation, simplification, mastication. Moderation causes hunger to come on before the next meal. It teaches when to eat. Simplification separates the kinds of foods and serves them with their natural flavors. It teaches us what to eat. Mastication facilitates digestion. It teaches us how to eat.

2. Occasional abstinence because of want of appetite is more conducive to a long and vigorous old age than the habit of eating without an appetite for fear of missing or skimping on a meal.

3. Chewing one kind of food at a time is the simplest way of preventing a mixing of interfering flavors or of incompatible foods.

4. Choose and chew! When you can't choose, chew! When you can't chew, choose!

5. Excess and error in eating habits require reform as much as do the disastrous and complicated business methods of recent times. The results of such eating are less sensational and less suicidal, but they shorten our lives none the less.

6. The physician is too much concerned with calories and vitamins, the cook is too much concerned with the multiplication and division of flavors, the eater is too unconcerned.

7. Health is more than strength. Longevity is more than senility. Disease is more than death.

This physician's philosophy and his method may not appeal to a majority of people, but it has carried him a long way and through a useful life and in spite of handicaps.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

A READER volunteers: "Where are the decided blondes of yesteryear?

"This depression seems to have decreased our folds. It's hard going, starting with the money for a touch-up when it is sorely needed for food and necessaries. More and more of us seem to be going au naturelle. I'm letting my hair grow back to its dull brown. But what to do in the meantime? Anyway of speeding up the growth?"

• • • •

A great many artificial blondes have found the "upkeep" too steep. Depression is doubtless one reason for the "back-to-nature" drive. Unsatisfactory results another reason. A reddish cast and a streaked effect are often the aftermaths to a round of bleach treatments. Last of all, permanent waving is responsible in good measure for the fewer blondes. For hair that is continually bleached loses its vitality and elasticity. It becomes dry, limp, straw-like.

To hasten the growing process, there isn't much that can be done aside from systematic brushing, upward and outward with brisk strokes, a hundred of them night and morning. Once a week or twice a week before the shampoo, a hot olive or castor oil treatment. Leave the oil on as long as convenient—overnight if you can. Or, if you have it on for an hour or so, sit under a sunlamp or a strong electric light. This helps to open the pores of the scalp and nourish the roots. A finger-tip massage is excellent to stimulate the circulation. And it's the circulation thus induced that strengthens the roots and hastens the growing-out process.

The shampoo used should be very mild and bland; caustic soaps are too drying.

After the shampoo a dark vegetable rinse may be used or a vegetable applied over the entire head to match the original shade of hair. Thus science has overcome the necessity of waiting until the bleached part of the hair grows out completely.

For those who wish to continue to bleach, it is best to have an occasional mild bleach treatment using a mild peroxide solution without ammonia.

CHICAGO GRAIN MART TO OPEN TOMORROW

Wheat Lower at Winnipeg on Liquidation; Country Receipts Higher.

Chicago, March 14 (A.P.).—Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade definitely announced late today that all departments of grain trading on the exchange would reopen at 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

The decision as to the time of resumption of grain business was made at a special meeting of directors who had awaited advices from rural shippers relative to facilities at many country banks where delay had resulted owing to physical impossibility of State and National officials to complete necessary details. Prior to action of Board of Trade directors, guesses among the rank and file of Chicago operators as to the time of probable resumption of grain dealings had ranged from Thursday until next Monday.

An advance of 2 cents a bushel in unofficial prices on barley received special attention today in Chicago. The rise of barley values was associated with prospective immediate legalizing of beer. Cash sales of barley today were reported at prices 2 cents up as compared with before the bank moratorium.

Fractional declines took place in Winnipeg wheat values today, and were attributed to curtailment of the aggressive buying which recently had lifted quotations 5 cents a bushel. Difficulties in foreign exchange transactions tended to hamper sales of Canadian wheat for shipment overseas.

Winnipeg Prices Lower.

Winnipeg, March 14 (A.P.).With the opening flurry over, support fled the Winnipeg grain market today. Liquidation of holdings proved burdensome and wheat futures steadily eased through the session, to close almost a cent lower. Trading was comparatively quiet.

Futures finished ⅝ to ¾ cent off, May at 50⅝; July, 51⅞ and October, 53⅜ to 53½.

Taking note of easiness at Liverpool, traders were cautious in making commitments today. Futures went into a slow decline right from the start. Holders of wheat unloaded offerings which, at times, the market had difficulty in absorbing.

A little foreign interest near the close enabled prices to rise fractionally from the low points, but liquidating sales pressed heavy until the finish. World crops reports showed poor prospects in Russia and United States winter wheat areas.

Still embroiled in monetary exchange difficulties, export trade in Canadian wheat again was absent. Advices here said that due to Canadian wheat temporarily being out of export competition, Argentina was securing a share in the United Kingdom market. This wheat is offered at large discounts under Canada's product.

Country receipts again showed an increase, 620,000 bushels being delivered Monday. Cash and coarse grains grains were dull and fractionally unchanged.

Stock Exchange Trading Will Be Resumed Today

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Trading on the New York Stock Exchange, suspended since close of business March 3, will be resumed tomorrow.

A notice sent out by the exchange ticker just before 3 o'clock this afternoon said:

"All members and their offices must be prepared to conduct business tomorrow, March 15."

It was signed by Ashbel Green, secretary of the exchange.

The exchange closed on March 4 for the banking holiday.

While definite information as to whether actual trading would start tomorrow was not immediately available, members of the exchange interpreted the notice as indicating that trading would resume, perhaps under restrictions.

The restrictions, it was announced, applied principally to gold and foreign exchange.

It was expected that trading in shares would be on a normal basis.

The New York Curb Exchange will also be open for business tomorrow morning.

Wall Street Briefs

(Associated Press.)

New York, March 14.—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. has put 200 men at work at East Pittsburgh building the Hoover Dam cylindrical gates. Furloughed employes have been recalled for the task and no new workers will be hired, the company announced.

Retirement of 18,500 shares of preferred stock of P. Lorillard Co. was approved at a special meeting of the stockholders today.

American Metal Market says in its weekly review that "buying of steel has not increased appreciably this week and scarcely any suspensions of shipment have been lifted while old orders are running out." The result is that mill operations continue to decline. "There is not yet any visible indication," added the review, "that operations will increase as early as next week, but when an upturn does occur it is likely to be sharp."

Stockholders of Studebaker Corporation at their annual meeting April 25 will be asked to authorize an increase of 625,000 shares in common stock and also to make the $15,625,000 in 6 per cent gold notes, convertible into common at any time after December 1, 1934, at the rate of one share for each $25 principal amount of bonds. "With the present condition of the automobile business," said the announcement, "it must be manifest to the stockholders that it is of the utmost importance for the conservation of their holdings of the stocks that this proposed change be approved."

W. H. Lalley, president of Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., told the stockholders today that gross volume at present was off about 29 per cent from 1932, due to smaller sales and lower prices.

Stockholders of Drug, Inc., today elected four new directors to fill vacancies caused by resignations. The new board members are George C. Haigh, vice president Bank of Manhattan Trust Co., New York; Eugene W. Stetson, vice president Guaranty Trust Co., New York; Charles S. Munson, president United States Industrial Alcohol Co., and J. Sumner Jones, Wheeling, W. Va. Stockholders also approved a reduction in the capital stock from $85,468,228 to $35,014,990 by changing the shares from no par value to $10 par. Of the resultant capital surplus, $23,662,579 will be used to adjust book values of certain subsidiary property accounts.

Paramount-Publix Gets Permit in Bankruptcy

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—United States District Judge William Bondy gave permission today for the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy for the Paramount-Publix Corporation.

The permission was requested by the equity receivers, Charles D. Hilles and Adolph Zukor.

Air Line Fares Are Reduced.

Pennsylvania Air Lines announced yesterday that a round trip schedule of fares would become effective immediately between Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Washington. The reduction for round trips is 10 per cent, according to W. J. Austin, vice president in charge of traffic.

U. S. BONDS STRONG IN COUNTER TRADING

Demand Is Wide as Gains Range From Fractions to 2 Points.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—United States Government listed securities displayed renewed strength today in unofficial trading on the "over-the-counter" market. Virtually all issues recording substantial gains in comparison with their stock exchange closing prices March 3, prior to the extended bank holiday.

While the actual sales total of the Federal loans was unavailable, owing to the fact that trading was carried on by a large number of dealers, the demand was said to have been quite brisk with a large part of the buying coming from individual investors.

Quotations furnished by some of the leading dealers showed that gains for the day ranged from fractions to more than 2 points, the most pronounced advances being registered by the Treasuries. Issues that were up 1 to 2.16 points over yesterday's unofficial prices included Liberty fourth 4¼s, and all of the Treasuries with the exception of the 3⅜s of 1940-43.

"Over-the-counter" transactions were permitted New York Stock Exchange members yesterday for the first time since the suspension of official trading coincident with the bank holiday.

Prompt subscriptions to the Treasury's $800,000,000 certificate offering, proceeds of which will be used principally to refund short-term issues maturing tomorrow, was also reported. Small premiums were already said to have been placed on the new certificates.

Paper From Pine Trees Is Practical

Vast Possibilities Claimed in Big Discovery for Newsprint.

Niagara Falls, March 14 (A.P.).—White newsprint paper made from Georgia pine trees only seven years old, a revolutionary discovery in paper making, was announced here tonight.

Newsprint is now made from 50-year-old trees, and tonight's announcement involves a possibility of farming "paper" trees on a par with orchards.

It also affords prospective cost reductions to newspapers, and opens a new avenue of approach to the economic reforestation projects sponsored by President Roosevelt. Millions of acres of these paper-making pines fill Southern forests.

Cotton Exchange Plans Reopening Tomorrow

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—The New York Cotton Exchange will open on Thursday with no changes in the trading limits, the board of managers announced today. Failure of the exchange to reopen simultaneously with other commodity exchanges tomorrow was thought to be due to far-flung commitments of the local trade over the South and the desire to await a fuller restoration of banking facilities.

The intention of the exchange to hold to the usual price swing of 200 points maximum was in line with expectations, although rumors earlier in the week suggested that the limit might be narrowed in anticipation of a sharply higher market upon resumption of trading.

Young Democrats Club To Hear Fiscal Expert

Daniel Waters, fiscal expert, will discuss the gold standard at a meeting of the political affairs committee of the Young Democrats Club of Washington tonight at the Women's National Democratic Club, 1526 New Hampshire avenue.

During the last five years he has lived in 21 foreign countries as legal adviser to the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. Miss Ruth Molyneaux, chairman of the political affairs committee, will preside.

MONEY MARKETS

NEW YORK.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—That the New York Federal Reserve Bank served as the medium for coaxing back a large part of the gold withdrawn for hoarding since the first of the year was disclosed today. Approximately $140,000,000 of the yellow metal has been turned in at the Federal Reserve Bank to date as against $250,000,000 paid out at the tellers' windows of Reserve Banks in all districts of the United States since January 1. These figures are not quite comparable, however, as some gold returned recently was withdrawn before the first of the year.

Investors Inclined to Buy As Stock Sales Open Today

Resumption of Exchange Business Is Expected to Be General, Under No Restrictions Except Those Regarding Gold and Hoarding.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—The great capital markets of the Nation will be thrown open tomorrow.

With more than 1,000 of the country's larger banks open today and thousands more scheduled to resume tomorrow, the New York and other leading securities markets ordered resumed trading tomorrow, while the big commodity marts—the Chicago Board of Trade and the New York Cotton Exchange—announced that they would follow on Thursday.

The resumption of business on the New York Stock Exchange marks the end of the first closing forced by an economic crisis since the outbreak of the World War, and this world's leading financial center planned to resume its normal functions tomorrow in sanguine hope that it had turned its back on the three-year ordeal of deflation.

Stock exchange commission houses received a stream of inquiries during the day, and they reported that the majority of investors were less anxious to sell than to buy, some of them with hoarded cash. There was much cancellation of selling orders that had been on brokers books when trading closed last March 3. Wall street felt a distinct wave of renewed financial confidence, engendered by the sweeping emergency bank measures.

Nevertheless, it was recognized that a restoration of normal business volume, and particularly of corporate earnings, was still in the future, and profit taking in American securities in London provided a note of caution. Selling there was light, however, and while the majority of leading American issues traded there lost from fractions to a point, a few showed advances of like extent, and on the basis of today's quotations of sterling exchange, most of them were slightly above final New York levels on March 3.

The resumption of trading in the Stock Exchange tomorrow, after a twelve-day closing, contrasted sharply with the start after the closing at the outbreak of the World War. While resumed trading then was severely restricted for months, no restrictions were placed on trading tomorrow.

The only emergency regulations promulgated by the exchange's special committee of seven which were retained were those forbidding members to pay gold or currency to hoarders and ordering them to conform to the regulations of foreign exchange dealings through the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

In today's foreign exchange dealings, the American dollar lost yesterday's gain against other currencies, but this was described as a normal reaction. Some speculators who had been hopeful of devaluation of the dollar through inflationary measures evidently have had their hopes dashed. Bankers pointed out that had the banking emergency been met by decidedly inflationary steps, resumption of security dealings would have been difficult, because there might have been a rush to switch from bonds to stocks or commodities.

U. S. Shares in London.

London, March 14 (A.P.).—Closing prices and net changes of leading American securities on the stock exchange quoted on the London trading basis of 4 shillings to the dollar, follow:

The London quotations are comparable with New York prices, because in London an arbitrary trading basis of four shillings to the dollar is used to facilitate transactions. Actually, under the prevailing rate of exchange, there are about six shillings to the dollar, on the basis of today's sterling-dollar exchange London prices of American stocks, compared with the New York closing quotations of March 3 work out as follows:

SPOT COTTON PRICES STILL HOLD HIGHER

Dealing Quiet as Traders Wait for Hedging on Market Opening.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—The disposition to await reestablishment of hedging facilities, now scheduled for Thursday, was more in evidence today and little spot business was reported. Of the two spot markets open, Norfolk reported no prices and no sales, while the Augusta market quoted middling 25 points lower at 7 cents with sales of 357 bales. According to early advices, spot holders in the South were maintaining their prices, but there were intimations late in the afternoon that in some cases interior holders were shading their basis, although still asking about 15 to 20 points more than their quotations of March 3.

The Liverpool market opened 4 to 5 points higher and closed net unchanged to 1 point higher with March and May quoted at 4.92 pence, July 4.93, October at 4.96 and January at 5.00. On the basis of sterling at $3.43 for cables, this was figured as equivalent to an advance of some 10 to 20 points as compared with the due price based on sterling at $3.45 on March 3. Cable advices from Liverpool said the market there had been irregular with some Bombay straddle selling on the wider parity absorbed by local dealers. Reports from Manchester indicated only isolated sales of yarns and cloths with current values still distrusted.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A BILL to amend the radio act of 1927, requiring persons using radio sets capable of receiving police broadcasts in automobiles to secure permits for such use, was reintroduced in the House by Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indiana. Mr. Ludlow introduced the bill last session, but there was no opportunity for its consideration.

The rumors that Mrs. Roosevelt received $5,000 for each of her radio performances and that Mrs. Curtis Dall, her daughter, would get $3,000 for the series she is to do twice weekly for a New York department store, were apparently very much exaggerated.

One of the few said to be in possession of the facts said the actual figures were $900 for one appearance weekly for Mrs. Roosevelt and will be $300 a week for two appearances for Mrs. Dall.

In radio, as has been the case with the stage for many years, the amount actually received in the pay envelope is at times far away from the publicized figure.

Ed Wynn is said to get $7,500 per performance and there are a dozen headliners in radio who are supposed to be receiving $5,000 each time they go on the air, but there are many who believe this is stage and not real money.

Certainly Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter are among the greatest headliners ever heard on the radio and the quoted stipends are modest enough.

THE piano recitals of Josef Lhevinne will be heard over WMAL at 9:30 p. m. each Wednesday, beginning tonight, instead of the later hour on Thursdays, as formerly. This change of time is to satisfy a demand by listeners throughout the country who wish to have children and young people hear the programs. In his concert tonight Lhevinne will play one of the most difficult concertos in piano repertory, the Konzertstuck in F minor, by Carl Maria von Weber.

Von Weber, a brilliant pianist, was noted for his unusually large hands, being able to play twelfths with ease. In the Konzertstuck he employed many novel and striking effects in chords and passage-work, which Lhevinne, also the possessor of hands of exceptional size, is able to render.

Debussy compositions round out the program. They are "La Terrasse des Audiences du Clair de Lune," "Poisson d'Or," from his second series of "Images," and the "Arabesque No. 1."

Fannie Brice, star of the vaudeville and musical revue stage, will begin her first extended radio series when the Royal Vagabonds program is broadcast over WRC at 8 p. m. Supported by George Olsen and his music, Miss Brice will present the sentimental songs, comedy sketches and monologues for which she has been famous in her career on the stage and screen.

Mme. Marie Zalipsky will sing a program of Russian music during the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs' program over WRC at 7 o'clock tonight. Mme. Zalipsky was connected with the Imperial Theater of Petrograd for many years.

MANY a wireless operator has gone down with his ship flashing an S O S to the world, and countless actors have held to their lines in the face of panic. Last Friday these traditions were preserved in Southern California broadcasting studios, shattered and shaken by earthquakes, but everlastingly "on the air."

In the face of peril staffs of Stations KFOX at Long Beach and KHJ at Los Angeles kicked aside debris from crumbling walls and ceilings, patched wires, repaired equipment and held to the air despite repeated quakes.

At Long Beach, staff members of KFOX worked inside wrecked and shaky walls to give the stricken city its only link with the outside world. Their messages, sputtering over a make-shift transmitter and broken by new temblors, were picked up at KHJ in Los Angeles and relayed to WABC, in New York.

Chief Engineer Harold G. Peery, of KHJ, at work under six swaying floors, teletyped first reports eastward. Falling plaster had injured two persons in the studios and the shocks were continuing. Peery paused to explain: "Excuse my errors. This damned machine keeps moving away from me. Guess I'll have to glue my hat on."

The running of the Columbian Mile, a one-mile race of the annual Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden, will be described over WJSV at 10:45 p. m.

In the race will be Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, National Collegiate A. A. champion; Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania freshman and holder of the National A. A. U. indoor title at 1,500 meters; Frank A. Crowley, of Manhattan College, I. C. A. A. A. A. mile indoor champion, and Glenn Dawson, of Oklahoma, National A. A. U. 1,000-meter indoor title holder.

Marquis James, winner of the 1929 Pulitzer Prize for his biography of Sam Houston, will be interviewed by Lewis H. Titterton, literary critic, over WMAL at 3:45 p. m. James will discuss his new book on Andrew Jackson.

THE Country Doctor is going off the air on the advice of his own physician, and will give his last broadcast over the WJZ network at 8:45 o'clock tonight.

Phillips H. Lord, who has been broadcasting as Seth Parker, the Country Doctor and other characters, without a vacation for the past four years, has been ordered to the hospital for a thorough rest.

The Seth Parker programs will continue to be heard over WRC each Sunday night at 10:45 o'clock, under Lord's supervision. Whether or not he will participate in the once-a-week broadcasts during the next few weeks, however, will depend on his doctor's advice.

A new series of six programs on "Architecture and the Allied Arts" will be heard (WJSV, 4:15 o'clock) today. The programs are being arranged by Eugene Clute, former editor of "Architectural Review," "Pencil Points" and "The Metal Arts," and some of America's leading architects, mural painters and decorators will be heard in discussions of their art.

"I HATE telephones, automobiles, airplanes and anything that makes noise. That includes the radio. I do not possess one."

This wasn't Mrs. Rip Van Winkle speaking, but Frances Perkins, our new Secretary of Labor, says Nellie Revell.

Warren Grimes, illustrious potentate of Almas Temple, and his entire Divan, will act as hosts at a St. Patrick's Day dance Friday night at the Almas Temple Shrine Club.

The affair has been arranged by a committee composed of Foster Shepherd, Ray Florence and George Harris.

1,600 SEE VAN AND IRVING FIGHT TO BRUISING DRAW

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IT WILL be along any day now—that old, familiar sports page stand-by that usually beats the groundhog out of his hole by a couple of weeks, but is now several weeks overdue. I mean the annual American League schedule, set four columns wide, which informs us, in addition to the playing dates of the big league clubs, that spring can't be far behind.

The Pennsylvania Senate has spoken and thus released the schedule which has been pigeon-holed in the Chicago headquarters of American League President Will Harridge since midwinter, awaiting the verdict on Sunday sports in the Quaker State. But still lying pigeon-holed in the desk of President Harridge is another and more profitable schedule that is doomed to waste its fragrance among the air castles of the magnates who had hoped for a favorable decision by the Pennsylvania solons.

For Pennsylvania yesterday killed the Sunday baseball bill and three big league clubs in the State are deprived of the Sabbath Day profits that are the life blood of any major league treasury. Two schedules were held in readiness by league headquarters and the one that will be released provides for no Sunday at-home dates for the Athletics, the Phillies or the Pirates.

Mackmen's Loss Nats' Gain.

But it is indeed an ill wind that blows nobody good, and in this case it is the local fandom which drinks the nectar from the cup that held the wormwood for Pennsylvania fans. For Washington will continue to share with New York the choice Sunday dates that forced the Athletics to play out of town.

With Sunday baseball permitted in Philadelphia, Washington fandom would be without big league baseball on the Sabbath during the summer on several occasions, but the Pennsylvania Senate has guaranteed the Capital entertainment.

The blow is doubly severe to Philadelphia. Connie Mack insisted in 1931 even after his club had won three pennants in a row that the team failed to show a profit. Last year the club went far in the red, necessitating the sale of Simmons, Dykes and Haas. With Sunday baseball allowed the team could begin to see the financial light, but as a result of the vote, the A's must continue to accept the 40 per cent of the receipts for games on foreign diamonds instead of the 60 per cent permitted the home clubs.

Cunningham and Venzke Race Again

Star Milers Clash in Feature of K. C. Meet at New York Tonight.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—The climax track meet of the indoor season, the Knights of Columbus' fourteenth annual games tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden, finds either a world, national or sectional title holder included in every event.

Most important of the rivalries built up through the season is that between Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, and Gene Venzke, of Pennsylvania, who meet for the last time indoors this year in the Columbian mile, headline event of the meet.

The two youngsters have met three times this year, with Cunningham victorious in their first two mile duels and Venzke the winner in a diving, thrilling finish in the 1,500-meter run of the national championships.

The Columbian mile has brought out some of the fastest racing ever done indoors, including Joie Ray's 4:12 effort in 1925, Lloyd Hahn's 4:12 1-5, Ray Conger's 4:13 2-5 and Venzke's own time of 4:14 2-5 two years ago when he scored his first major victory at the distance.

Pro Golf Clan Heads For Radium Springs

Albany, Ga., March 14 (A.P.).—Pointing north after the season in Florida, the vanguard of nine members of the country's touring golf professionals tried out the Radium Springs course here today in preparation for the 54-hole open tournament starting Saturday.

Others expected tonight or tomorrow are Walter Hagen, Olin Dutra, Joe Kirkwood, Horton Smith, Al Espinosa, Charlie Guest, Paul Runyan, Denny Shute and Al Watrous.

An eighteen-hole qualifying round will open the $1,000 tournament Saturday, with the final 36 holes Sunday open to the 60 low scorers.

Atlanta Game Is Test for Rookies

L. Thomos, Linke Battle for Place on Nat Box Staff.

Cronin Shows Signs of Recovering His Batting Eye.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 14.—Two eager young men, both of them immensely steamed up over the prospect of remaining with the Washington Ball Club, go on the spot tomorrow at the Biloxi ball yard when the revamped Atlanta Crackers come over here to play the third of a three-game series with Joe Cronin, the young maestro, and his lads.

The perspiring youths are Bud Thomas, late of the Capital City League in Washington, and Ed Linke, who labored for Davenport, of the Mississippi Valley League, last year.

At stake is the position of ninth pitcher with the 1933 Nationals. The club will carry that many flippers and eight of them have long since been selected—Crowder, Weaver, Whitehill, Stewart, Al Thomas, Burke, McAfee and Russell. Ostensibly the issue lies between Bud and Ed for that ninth position, Bob Friedrichs having shown too much wildness to be considered at this time.

Linke Thomas Face Test Today.

Manager Cronin decided today to start Linke tomorrow, permit him to pitch five innings, and let Thomas finish the game. Of the two, Bud shows the greater control of himself and the baseball. The old-timers down here marvel at the cool level-headedness of the District sandlotter. Last Saturday he stepped into the tied-up Atlanta-Washington game and unconcernedly allowed the hefty minor leaguers only one hit in the last three innings.

Thomas' mannerisms in the box have undergone marked changes since he first gained notice with the Olmsted Grill Team in Washington, as you can readily imagine. He takes his time in everything he does. He has his own ideas on how to pitch to the men who face him, and now and then you see him nod his head negatively to a catcher like Moe Berg—almost twice his years. He has everything on the ball one needs. Al Crowder points that all he must do now is get his hooks to break more sharply.

Linke is a big, strong kid with no more pitching form than the hero in one of those baseball movies. He pegs the ball at the batters, but this very unorthodox manner of his must be partially responsible for his success. He pitches very fast, never giving his men much of a chance to dig their cleats in and get a toe-hold on the plate. His fire ball is his meal ticket.

Skipper Cronin Finds Batting Eye.

Both kids are 20, and the ambition is running out of their ears. Both realize what tomorrow has in store for them.

A dismal fog blanketed the playing field this morning, but it did nothing to stop an extended batting drill that lasted until after noon. Joe Cronin joined the select little group of those who have found their batting eyes, by hitting the well-known winesap with a vigor that found few of the shaggers willing to step in front of them.

Tris Speaker, here in an effort to pick up some players for his Kansas City team, viewed this morning's workout and pronounced the team as "Not bad—not bad at all."

It may have been the fog, but half of this morning's batters seemed afflicted with butter fingers, the way the bats were slipping out of their hands. Monte Weaver, the apple of Clark Griffith's eye, narrowly escaped heaven knows what injury when slugging Cecil Travis missed one of Jack Russell's drops and his bat went out on a terrifically straight line for Monte's head. Somehow the yells of the players reached Monte before the bat did and the famous sophomore hit the dust just in time. Mike Martin and Clark Griffith had to be fanned back to consciousness.

A bat also got away from Cliff Bolton and hit Moe Berg a resounding whack on the leg, leaving Mister Berg reflectively rubbing the injured member and wondering if that was Bolton's idea of how to become the regular 1933 catcher.

Carnera Is Injured Driving Racing Car

Suffers Painful Cuts About Head When Auto Overturns in Italy.

Udine, Italy, March 14 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera suffered painful injuries today when a racing automobile he was trying out with a friend overturned on the road from Bologna.

Carnera and his companion, Bruno Rapieri, were taken to a hospital at San Vito al Tagliamento, where it was discovered that the heavyweight boxer had suffered cuts on the back of his head and on the left temple.

Hospital attaches said Carnera would be entirely well in ten days, and that he would be able to return to his home in the village of Sequals tomorrow.

Rapieri was more gravely hurt.

Giants Rated Better Than In 1932

Pilot Terry's Only Question Mark Is Mound Staff.

(This is the third of a series of first-hand Associated Press stories, dealing with prospects of major league baseball clubs, as seen at the training camps.)

By BRIAN BELL.

LOS ANGELES, March 14 (A.P.).—The New York Giants were making a brave showing in spring training until the earthquake made an attack on their nerves.

Immediately after Mother Earth shook them up, they started playing with one eye on the ball and the other on the flag pole in center field, to see if the old girl had another convulsion on tap. However, Bill Terry's enthusiastic followers probably will snap out of it before the National League season opens. In any event, if they fail to crowd the leaders as they expect, they have a readymade alibi and can blame it on the earthquake.

Well-Conditioned Outfit.

There has been plenty of hard work in the spring and a well-conditioned outfit should move into the Polo Grounds a few weeks hence. From his observation post at first base, Memphis Bill sees pleasing prospects in the infield, outfield and catching departments and he hopes for the best from the pitchers. He will not know about the sharpshooters for a while.

The manager himself is going great guns, hitting the ball hard and playing a superlative fielding game. Little Hughie Critz, a shell of his former self in 1931 and still uncertain last year, has unquestionably returned to form for the current season. He is throwing as though he never had a bad arm and will play a lot of second base.

Travis Jackson has returned to the baseball wars from the hospital list and should help the defensive and offensive cause of the club. Jack Ryan, Jackson's understudy, from Holy Cross by way of Buffalo, is a fielding marvel, but has damaged no fences with line drives thus far. Johnny Vergez is a better third baseman than he was last year and has been hitting well in the spring. Sam Leslie, a powerful hitter, and Byrne James, very fleet on the base paths, will be held in reserve.

Ott Best Bet Among Fly-Hawks.

The ever-dependable Melvin Ott, a seasoned veteran at 24, leads the outfield brigade, but George Davis, pride of New York University and a star with the Phillies last year, has been making a firm impression in the exhibition games. Joe Moore will play the other outfield position with a scramble on for the two extra places. Homer Peel may get one and a couple of youngsters are fighting hard.

Joe Martin, from the Piedmont League, is being tried as an infielder and may be along later. Henry Leiber, like Martin, just 21 and also a former Winston-Salem player, probably will have to make way for more experienced performers for a time. Len Koenecke, who played better ball in the International than he did in the National League, remains on trial.

The receiving corps has been bolstered measurably by the acquisition of the hard-hitting, chattering Gus Mancuso. Paul Richards, up from Minneapolis, will be first assistant. Richards, too, has plenty of pepper and at one time was a baseball jack of all trades, playing any position and throwing with either hand.

Pitchers Big Question Mark.

The pitchers make up the question in the Giants' camp as they do in most others. If Manager Terry had to select nine now, he probably would nominate Fred Fitzsimmons, Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, Glenn Spencer, Ray Starr, Adolfo Luque, Bill Shores, Leroy Parmalee and Herman Bell. Alfred Smith, St. Louis boy, who pitched for Winston-Salem last year, has a chance to crowd one of the older men out of the picture, but it's a long jump from the Piedmont to the National League and there are a lot of places in between where needed experience may be acquired.

The Giants will make a better showing than they did last year. They should do very much better. If they do not, they can always call attention to the earthquake.

Wyoming President Urges Football Ban

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 14 (A.P.).—Dr. A. G. Crane, president of the University of Wyoming, announced today he would recommend the elimination of football as a means of balancing the university budget, which was reduced by the recent Legislature.

Dr. Crane indicated his doubt that the board of trustees would accept the recommendation in full, but said he believed it would result in a football program on a greatly curtailed basis.

MACK LOSES SUNDAY LAW BATTLE

Pennsylvania Senate Defeats Appeal for Sabbath Baseball.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 14 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania bowed to faith of its fathers today and smashed an attempt to amend the blue laws of 1794 to permit sport on the Sabbath.

The House bill, which would have liberalized Sunday afternoon pastime was rejected by the Senate, 26 to 24, as the climax to a long struggle.

The bill with the governor's signature would have permitted Sunday professional baseball. Both the National and American leagues withheld their season's schedules in the hope that Sunday games would be permitted in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the only cities in the major circuits where they are barred.

Cities vs. Rural Neighbors.

With cities arrayed against their rural neighbors, spokesmen for each side delved into the Scriptures in pleading with the Senate until the final roll call.

Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics and other notables of sportdom came to Harrisburg to plead for repeal; church organizations and civic leaders brought champions to the capitol to plead their opposition.

Both the House and Senate held public hearings.

The House passed the bill February 2, by 126 to 76.

2 BIG FIGHTS SLATED FOR NEW YORK

Schmeling and Baer, Sharkey and Primo Vie for Receipts.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

NEW YORK, March 14 (U.P.).—New York City was definitely assured of two major heavyweight battles for the month of June today when the boxing commission sanctioned a meeting of champion Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera.

Last week the commission approved a battle between Max Schmeling and Max Baer for June 1. Jack Dempsey, who will promote the battle of the Maxes, attended the commission's meeting today and said he had definitely settled upon either the Polo Grounds or Yankee Stadium for his venture.

Sharkey-Carnera Date Indefinite.

James J. Johnston, general manager of Madison Square Garden, did not set a definite date for the championship fight between Sharkey and Carnera, contenting himself with obtaining permission to stage it "some Thursday night in June." Asked if there was a possibility of his holding the fight in May in order to steal the play from Dempsey's show, Johnston replied, "Maybe no, maybe yes."

The chances of his holding it in May, however, seem slight, for Tim Mara, who is associated with Dempsey, knows enough of the right people to prevent such a move on the part of the Garden. And the fact that Dempsey will donate a part of the gate receipts to the Calvary Cancer Hospital, a pet charity of Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, is not calculated to lend strength to the opposition's cause.

The ease with which Johnston obtained sanction of a match between Sharkey and Carnera furnished a laugh to the boxing writers, who remembered the commission's edict concerning Carnera immediately following the death of Ernie Schaaf. When Schaaf died the boxing fathers announced that in the future Carnera would not be allowed to fight men of ordinary size—that his fights would have to be limited to engagements with boxers of the "dreadnaught" class. The commissioners side-stepped this ruling today very neatly.

Dreadnaught Rule Only In Non-Title Bouts.

"We made a mistake when we drew up that rule," explained the octogenarian, Commissioner William Muldoon. "Or rather the secretary made a mistake. He left out the words 'excepting when a championship is involved.' The rule still holds good when the heavyweight title is not at stake."

The commissioner was asked just what constituted a "dreadnaught" fighter.

"My, my, my, I made the rule myself and I've forgotten just what a dreadnaught is. What is a dreadnaught, General?"

"Six-foot-two and 220 pounds," replied Gen. John J. Phelan, commission chairman, "Let's be going, professor."

BILOXI BUNTS

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 14.—If Cecil Travis does beat out Ossie Bluege for third base, and that notion is beginning to recede into the limbo of "not quites," the conversational flow on the field won't be aided any. If anything, the Georgia kid has less to say than Ossie.

Luke Sewell and Dave Harris started out in life as infielders. Now look at 'em!

Little Lefty Burrows, the Phoenix sandlotter, has very quietly gone about the task of creeping into the consciousness of both Joe Cronin and Clark Griffith. The stocky pitcher first caught Griffith's eye with his smooth mannerisms in the box. Off the field he's most inoffensive, seeking some unbusy corner or the ping pong table.

But out on the field he works like the proverbial beaver, shagging balls in the outfield, tumbling about in pepper drills and pitching all he can. Although only 18, he's got swell control, almost as much speed as anybody on the team and, in Griffith's opinion, a real future lies ahead of him. He first gained notice in the American Legion junior series last year.

The Coffeyville, Kans., postoffice should be ready to pay dividends any day now, what with Johnny Kerr dispatching an average of 19 letters a week that way where Mrs. Kerr is spending a vacation.

"I was just on a vacation with St. Louis," bellowed Goose Goslin the other day as he whacked out three terrifically long balls to right field. Goose had last year's .299 batting average in mind.

The players are thinking about signing a petition asking the Biloxi Golf Club to reduce their standard green fees. It's costing the boys about $1.50 a day to play and they believe the club should relent in view of the fact that at least a dozen players gather there daily. There's talk of boycotting.

After a great start, Earl Whitehill and Luke Sewell have failed to oust Sam Rice as the leading golfer on the club. Sam is hitting a longer ball than ever this year. Clark Griffith is the only one around who can really give him a battle. That is, he was before the lumbago.

None of the help gets paid off at the hotel until the ball team settles its account at the end of the training season. The waiters are walking to work, which slows down service in the dining room to a walk.

Volley ball has fallen into discard down here, probably at the command of Joe Cronin, in favor of pepper drilling. A half-hour of pepper drill doubtlessly takes more out of a player than a dozen games of volley ball or six trips around the far-flung park. Besides nothing sharpens up the eye more than this rapid-fire bunting and fielding exercise.

"This is the best ball club Clark's ever had," says Billy Smith, wielder of the peanut concession at the park road secretary for the club, and himself a successful minor league manager and magnate.

Signing of Wilson Peps Up Dodgers

Hack Finally in Fold at Reported $10,000 Salary for Season.

Miami, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—Encouraged by the signing of Hack Wilson, pudgy slugger, the Brooklyn Dodgers stepped through a brisk training period in their winter quarters here today.

Wilson, who previously balked at the salary offered him, placed his name to a contract today, and was quite secretive about the number of dollars he would receive for the year's labors.

Club officials likewise declined to give the definite figures. But information about the training camp was that he would collect $10,000. Last year he received $16,500. His salary in 1931, when he was the champion homerun slugger of the National League, was about $31,000.

With Wilson on contract, the Dodgers now have only one holdout and that is Joe Stripp, third baseman. Stripp lives at Orlando. Reports here said he would leave for Miami probably tomorrow to confer on contract terms.

Informed the State Senate had failed to pass the bill, the big first baseman said he would try to confer with President Gerald Nugent tonight, and probably would have something to announce tomorrow.

Previously he said he would ask the club for a salary increase if the blue law modifier was passed. It was reported today he now is ready to sign at the Phils' offer.

Bradenton, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—Pepper Martin at shortstop and Joe Medwick at third base was the surprise combination tried by Manager Gabby Street at the St. Louis Cardinals' practice session today.

Street wants many strings to his bow and figures Medwick may be developed into a big leaguer at the hot corner.

Local Rivals Each Near Knockout

Van Stages Rally to Floor Irving for 3 Count in 7th.

Stereotyper Forced to Hang on to Survive 2d Round.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

WARREN VAN SCIVER, the stereotypers' union's gift to the prize ring, fought himself out of the lengthening shadows of knockoutdom that enveloped him in the second round and received a draw with Henry Popyee Irving last night at Portner's Arena at the finish of the eighth round that found both contenders for the District of Columbia middleweight championship fit subjects for the oxygen tanks.

But if there was any gift attached to the unanimous draw decision, Irving was the beneficiary, for the reformed truck driver won only three rounds from this corner and all the flailing of his famed right hand couldn't erase the knockdown for the count of three in the seventh round that Van applied with a flurry of short jolts to the head.

The title thus remains in dispute, but the 1,600 who saw the fight saw a new model Van with nonshatterable glass in his jaw, if any. The Irving right landed a half dozen times and his left found a target, too, but Van remained upright and was making a winning battle out of it at the finish.

Van Near Knockout In Second.

It wasn't supposed to go the limit in view of the supposedly fragile qualities of Van's chin and the doubtful stamina of the wild-pitching Irving, and in the second round the preflight dope seemed about to be gorgeously rewarded with Van hanging on weakly and seemingly ripe for the knockout.

Irving had crossed Van beautifully. The young stereotyper who had trained for weeks to outwit Irving's deadly right found himself suddenly lashed in the stomach with a looping Irving left. Another Irving left smashed him in the mouth, and both bleeding and bewildered Van was crowded to the ropes, where only his clinging powers enabled him to keep the lights on.

Then Van showed he could take it, for he came out in the third round to smash Irving around the ring from close range, hooking and uppercutting to win the round in a sudden turn of ring fortunes that heartened both Van and his admirers. He lost the fourth when Irving nailed him repeatedly on the ropes, and then Van started the rally that should have earned him the decision.

Punishes Irving In Body.

Irving had spent himself in those first four rounds and Van was expending what remained of Irving's stamina by stepping inside the looping rights and pummeling the body until he was arm weary.

Thirty seconds before the bell for the sixth, Irving had absorbed so much in the stomach that his head was draped weakly on his chest with no defense and Van himself was so weary that his kayo punch was somewhere about the premises, with Irving crying to be put away.

But in the seventh Van connected with two left hooks to the head and then crossed a right that sent Irving sprawling to the floor where he took a three count and hung on for the remainder of the round.

The last round saw both boys arm weary and leg weary with Van lightly jabbing and Irving desperately trying to connect with a haymaker. It was Van's round by a shade. This corner gave him the third and the last four.

The only knockout of the entire card occurred in the fourth round of the main preliminary when Billy Landers smacked Tommy Horn with a straight right to the jaw. Horn dropped like a ton of lead and was counted out after 1 minute and 2 seconds of the round.

"Stumpy" Jacobs gave away nine pounds in his battle with Roy Manley and lost the decision which was announced amid a chorus of boos. Jacobs forced the issue all the way and appeared deserving of at least a draw.

Bob Lowry, 139 pounds, suffered his first defeat at Portner's at the hands of smart and cool-thinking Jackie Levinson, also 139 pounds. Levinson cut Lowry to shreds with a chopping left in the fourth round. Lowry offered stout resistance, but was outfought by a goodly margin.

Portner's found a new drawing card in Tex Mills, who waded into Billy Essinger, quite a battler in his own right, and had to be content with a draw.

Baseball Fans Rushing Entries as Post Contest Terminates at Midnight

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THERE are a certain number of people who get a thrill out of life catching a train just as it is pulling out of the station and this type is warned that The Post's baseball contest is on the verge of closing and that they will have to do some fancy hustling if they want to get in their entry on time—for the deadline is midnight tonight.

The "Jimmy Walker" type—those who make being late a hobby—will not be admitted in this contest, as all entries postmarked after 12 midnight will be tossed out.

Judging from the number of votes received yesterday, there are hundreds of fans who have been delaying entry until the last minute and the late rush today is expected to swell th list close to 10,000, marking it as one of the most popular and unique baseball contests ever staged in the Capital City.

Herculean Task for Contest Editor.

With the fans' duty done, real work starts for the Contest Editor, who faces the herculean task of wading through the ballots seeking the three winners of the box seats for the opening day game against the Athletics on April 12.

SUPREME SWEET ROMPS HOME IN TROPICAL PARK SPRINT

Choice Beats Wise Count A Length

Fire Mask, Favorite, Takes Early Lead to Win Opener.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 14 (A.P.). — Another good-sized crowd visited the picturesque course on the western edge of Coral Gables this afternoon. Supreme Sweet, in the white and blue silks of the Superior Stable, found the short distance of five and a half furlongs exactly what the doctor ordered and romped home a handy winner of the featured Nakhoda claiming purse. Favorite in the betting at $3.40 for $2, the fast stepping daughter of High Time saluted the judges a length in advance of E. C. Grogan's Wise Count. My Purchase lost the place by three parts of a length.

Admirably handled by Apprentice Herb Kneessl, Supreme Sweet had to race with the speedy Wise Count from the first step to the finish, but she was equal to the task and was drawing away from her closest rival through the final stages.

My Purchase Challenges Too Late.

My Purchase sailed around the home turn on the outside in a menacing fashion, but did not have adequate time in the short stretch to overtake Wise Count. Judge Schilling met with interference at the head of the stretch and was beaten a length for the show.

Fire Mask, 1-to-2 favorite, led home eleven other maiden 2-year-old fillies in the 3½-furlong dash which opened the sport. Altena trailed the winner by two lengths while saving the place from Chagrin by a length and a half. Charlie Corbett broke the odds-on choice well and sent her to the front to open up a daylight advantage which Altena never could threaten. Chagrin moved up fast after the start and ran a nice race

Orliey was much the best of the ordinary platers in the second event, scoring by five lengths to return $10.80. Dark Colleen just lasted to nose out Gulfelano for the place. Orliey had the speed of the field, taking a quick lead and drawing well clear despite going a bit wide at the stretch turn. Circean and Three Bees both met with some interference during early crowding.

Edith A. Wins Third After Slow Start.

Edith A. and Mudraker were the last horses to get into their strides in the third race, but they finished one-two as named, a length separating the pair. Wayward Lad landed the show another length behind. Edith A., with Renick up, started her winning drive after entering the back stretch and overtook the leaders entering the final straightaway. Mudraker's rider, H. Bagur, lost one foot out of the stirrup irons in the run to the first turn, but after adjusting this difficulty entering the far side Bagus drove the favorite hard and Mudraker made up a lot of ground. Wayward Lad was a forward contender from the start. The winner returned $12.80.

Jockey Sammy Renick completed a double by piloting Elizabeth Fox to a surprise victory in the fifth contest, the filly winning by a half length in a pretty finish. Matadi was a like distance before Daily News for the secondary portion of the purse. Elizabeth Fox was outrun in the early stages, but began a challenge that was not to be denied after leaving the far turn. Matadi and Daily News, the latter having to race wide into the stretch, were pressing the winner at the end. Elizabeth Fox returned $20.90 for $2.

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 15.

Well, friend, there isn't a whole lot to report. I didn't get shut out and had most of my horses battling for the big dough. Englewood had the laugh on me when she beat Solace, but that's the way I've been going lately. It's the old story of when-you-do-you-don't and when-you-don't-you-do. However, tomorrow is another day, all day long. And Ive been deep in the book tonight. Honestly believe I have some paying propositions. Now that the banks are open, we can speak more freely. Get on the line. BILL.

FIRST RACE—FLOWER DAY turned in a pretty neat effort for me at Hialeah and seems to be the best of this field. BICHLORIDE closed a lot of ground last out and may make the top one use everything in the stretch run. GRACIAS is still dangerous.

SECOND RACE—BUBBLING WAYS may be the one to graduate from the maiden ranks in this dash. PIN LUCK, with a better post, may draw much of the play. BREEZING ON to take care of the show end.

THIRD RACE—MOHAMET comes to this sprint after a rest and I expect him to take care of anything in the way of speed that this field will offer. LADY LEGEND, one of my old favorites, rates close in this. PRIMER may be third.

FOURTH RACE—PREWAR gets 13 pounds from CRAPSHOOTER tomorrow and may take this opportunity to run that good race the clockers tell me is on the way. Wouldn't risk the family jewels, but a small across the board wager might bring dividends. GOLDEN FATE for what's left.

FIFTH RACE—DORSAYS may hoof it away from that No. 1 post and never be headed. And then again, DON ROMIRO may turn the trick. BARCELONA PETE, despite top weight, should figure somewhere in the money picture.

SIXTH RACE—JUDGE PRIMROSE seems to be the life of the party here. Packs plenty of speed punch and comes to this race after a good workout. ARAB and Meade may figure in the fight for second money. HONEY LOCUST was whispered to me at Hialeah.

SEVENTH RACE—TRY IT, now that the last showed everything, should come back with another winning effort and I expect even more price tomorrow. MODERN TIMES and BANDERLOG for the rest.

New Orleans Meet Resumes Thursday

To Be Extended for Week; Needy Horsemen to Share Purses.

New Orleans, March 14 (A.P.).—Joseph A. Murphy, general manager of the Crescent City Jockey Club, which suspended racing at the Fair Grounds track a week ago, announced today that racing will be resumed Thursday and that the meet, instead of closing Saturday, will be extended a week, ending Saturday, March 25.

The Duncan F. Kenner Stakes, $2,000 added, to decide the 2-year-old champion of the winter will be run this Saturday, and the Louisiana Derby, $5,000 added, will close the meet March 25.

Murphy said that city officials had agreed to allow the club to extend its meet the additional week.

During cessation of racing, the club has cashed horsemen's checks through mutuel funds, kept on hand in the track vault. Local feeding houses have extended credit to the stables.

It also was announced the club would make deduction from purses in accordance with a petition, to take care of any horsemen pressed for funds. A committee of horsemen will investigate and determine those to receive financial assistance.

Eastern Votes Ten Basket Ball Letters

Members of Runners-Up in Series Honored at Dinner.

Ten members of the Eastern High School Basket Ball Team, which finished second to Central in the interhigh school championship series, were awarded letters at a dinner given yesterday afternoon at the school.

Charles A. Hart, principal of the school; Coach Mike Kelley of the basket ball team, and John Paul Collins, chairman of the faculty advisors' committee, addressed the gathering. Mr. A. J. Gregory, one of the stanchest supporters of the school, also attended. Eastern recently won the Washington and Lee tournament for the second straight year.

Hurdle Finish Photo Costs Ohio Third Place

New York, March 14 (U.P.).—Order of the finish of 70-yard hurdles event of the I. C. A. A. A. A. indoor track meet held March 4 was officially changed today after study of photographs. Tentative decision given soon after the race was run placed Okie, of Princeton, third, and Hayes, of Harvard, fourth. These places were reversed after the meet committee studied enlargements of photos.

The finish was one of the closest in indoor track history, with the six contestants crossing the line within 1½ feet of each other. The winner was Lockwood, of Yale, with Pessoni, of Manhattan, second; Chapman, of Dartmouth, fifth, and Reidell, of Columbia, sixth.

A.A.U. DEBUT IS WON BY SHOLL'S

Beats H., R. & F. Five, 42-12; Potomacs Score Rout.

SHOLL'S tossers made their debut last night in the A. A. U. title basket ball tournament, sponsored by The Post, and they simply breezed through the Higby, Richardson and Franklin five in the unlimited class, scoring 42 to 12. In other games on the card, the Potomac Boat Club 145-pounders routed Anacostia, 53 to 17; French A. C. gained a 28-to-19 verdict over Ennis Tires in the 130-pound class, and the Georgetown Boys Club downed the Neighborhood 100-pounders, 36 to 32.

The gallery seemed to be particularly interested in the Sholl's-H. R. and F. game, thinking that the latter might upset the dope and hand the Cafemen a trimming, but, with Keisel showing the way with 9 points, the result was never in doubt. In fact, Manager Mothershead only used his regulars part time and then gave his subs a chance. Harris was high gun for the losers, having two goals from scrimmage and a charity toss to show for his efforts.

Potomacs Win in Handy Fashion.

Potomacs had an even easier time putting the Anacostians out of commission. Showing some flashy passing and coordinated teamwork, plus individual stars in Essenstad, Ward, Genduson, Fitzgerald and Breen, they made themselves prime choices to cop final honors. They stepped out at the very start and soon had such a commanding lead that it was just a case of finishing out the string. Essenstad alone scored 15 points, almost as many as the whole losing team. Adlund, with eight points, was the Anacostians' star.

The closest game of the night's card was that between the Frenches and the Tiremen. The latter always were on their opponents' heels, but did not quite have the class to net victory. A. Smith, of the losers, led the scorers with nine points, with Scheirle getting eight for the Frenches, while Colbert and Hoffberg had seven each.

Although the Neighborhood five was outscored by the Georgetown Club, it was not outfought by any means, these youngsters staging quite a battle. Georgetown boasted some better sharpshooters, however, and it gradually forged ahead and stayed there until the end. H. Chism showed the way with 14 points, with Schnouffer, a teammate, scoring 10. Schwaner and C. King, of Neighborhood, led the losers with nine and eight, respectively.

MIDNIGHT DEADLINE IN POST'S CONTEST

standing players who have worked under him since he came to Washington back in 1912. In order that there could be no leaks of any kind, even the Contest Editor does not know what players will be named and he will not know until tomorrow morning.

What makes this contest so unique is the fact that the fans are not asked to name an all-star team as a combination of this kind is generally selected, but, rather, they are asked to pick an "all-Griffith" combination—to try to select the group which Clark Griffith considers the best. This combines a study of the records of all players with other factors and makes it more of a guessing game, with the winners probably having to have even a smattering of mind-reading ability.

Probably 1,000 players have performed in Washington livery from 1912 to date and those who have matched Griffith's team of 13—a regular infield and outfield, two catchers and four pitchers—surely will have something to write home to Aunt Kate about. Not only will they be the kings, or queens, of Washington fandom but they also will be the "life of the party" at the opening-day game, for the winner will be awarded eight box seats, the runner-up four and the third best picker will draw two.

If you haven't sent in an entry do so at once and, if you are late, don't say I didn't warn you.

MIDATLANTIC GOLF PROS MEET

Secret Session Held; Sweepstake Is Won by Al Houghton.

MEMBERS of the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. gathered yesterday at Kenwood Golf and Country Club in what turned out to be a "strictly confidential meeting." Newspapermen were barred and professionals in attendance were requested not to divulge the matters that came up for discussion until after the meeting in April.

Only two Baltimore pros attended. They were Ralph Beach, of Suburban, president, and Glenn Spencer, of Maryland G. and C. C., vice president. District pros turned out in large numbers.

Following the meeting, a sweepstakes tournament was conducted, and it remained for the home pro, Al Houghton, to emerge the victor with a 74. Houghton was out in 39, after taking a ghastly 6 on the second hole. He improved on the home stretch, breezing in with a 35.

Mel Shorey, of East Potomac, and George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring tutor, tied for second prize, with 75 each, while Frankie Cunningham, young Burning Tree assistant, after blazing away with a glistening 35, cracked on the incoming journey for a 41. His brother, Walter (Red) Cunningham, Burning Tree pro, shot a 77; Cliff Spencer, of Beaver Dam; A. B. Thorn, late of Woodmont, and Al Treder, of Manor, finished with 79 each. Leo Walper scored an 80.

Hitting the Headpin

A NEW all-time high team set record of 683 was established by the Kools Drinks Team of the Columbia Heights League last night at the Arcadia. This shatters the mark formerly held by Swann's by 3 pins.

Kools Drinks finished with a high team set of 1,769. During the course of this smashing attack on the maples, Bernhardt carried off high set prize with a 377. Joe Pricci, of Arcadia, shot a 148 for high individual game.

Two new records went by the boards at Arcadia in the Men's Lutheran League. Zanner, of St. Mark's, with a 403, set a new set record for the season, one of his individual games being a 146. St. Paul's No. 1 scored a 619 for a new season's team game mark, and wound up with a 1,849 high team set.

Nick Tronsky and Ed White, members of the famed Blue Ribbon Duckpin Bowling Team, will exhibit their wares Friday night at Convention Hall in doubles and singles matches. "Whip" Litchfield and Eddie Espey will oppose them in doubles. Tronsky will be pitted against Paully Harrison, and White against Espey in singles.

Roly Poly Al Hancock rattled off a 354 set in The Washington Post League at Lucky Strike yesterday to garner one of the individual prizes. Frank Money bagged the other with a 133 game. Rubics rolled 1,501 to take team set honors, and bagged game prize with 514.

Contest Facts In Brief

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will select in The Washington Post of March 19 his all-time, all-star team from among the clubs that represented Washington during the years from 1912 to 1932 inclusive.

The fan who submits the selection that matches or most nearly matches Griffith's selection will be adjudged the winner of the contest.

One man is to be selected for each of the infield and outfield positions with four pitchers and two catchers.

To the winner The Washington Post will award eight box seats to the 1933 opening game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Second place will get four box seats, with third place earning two box seats.

Entrants may use the accompanying coupon for their selections, although the use of the coupon is not necessary for entrance in the contest.

Each entrant is limited to one selection.

The contest will close March 17.

District of Columbia basket ball championship for the first time last year, is now a formidable contender for the girl's title. Capital City Unlimiteds Plan for Baseball Year

Six Teams Represented With More to Attend Another Meeting Next Tuesday; Seniors to Hold Session Tonight.

SIX clubs were represented at the organization meeting of the unlimited division of the Capital City League last night. The league's newly elected president, Richard A. Tennyson, presided over the meeting, held in the office of the Playground Department of the District Building. The Playground Department is cosponsor of the loop with The Post.

Teams represented and their managers were Griffith Blue Coals, Willie Glascoe; Ciro's Villagers, Tony Burruto; Miller Furniture Co., "Keck" Curtain; Utah State Society, J. F. Cowley; Columbia Heights, Charley Edwards, and A. R. Clark, who will pilot the team that competed for Steuart Motors last season.

Rules governing the association and playing rules were discussed, though definite action on those up for revision was deferred until the next meeting when more teams will be represented.

Col. Hjalmar Ericson, retiring president, who will serve on the board of directors, and Lieut. Max D. Prentice, newly elected vice president, addressed the meeting. Col. Ericson said that sandlot baseball is needed today more than ever before because of the decline of the sport in schools and colleges. He pointed out that the major leagues would draw future players from the sandlot ranks.

The unlimited division will meet again Tuesday at the District Building. Tonight at 8 o'clock in the Playground Department Office, senior teams will meet to plan for their Capital City League season.

REVISED TOURNEY SCHEDULE.

Three changes have been made in the schedule of games of the Southeast Community Center basket ball tourney. Tonight the Marines play Terry's at 7:15 o'clock. Thursday Easton plays Terry's at the same hour, and Friday Terry's plays Friendship at 9 o'clock.

Travers, Alexandria Boy, Captains V. M. I.

Lexington, Va., March 14.—The monogram men of two winter teams at V. M. I. elected their captains, who will lead them in their 1934 campaigns. The hoop artists elected Paul ("Stumpy") Travers, of Alexandria, Va., as their captain. Travers was a regular all season and played an excellent game at guard against all opposition.

Although one of the smallest men on the squad, he is fast and clever with the ball and was a thorn in the side of opposing forwards all years. This is the first season that Travers has played as a regular in basket ball, but his fame in football is known throughout the State. Travers' election was popular with the cadets and faculty alike, as he is one of V. M. I.'s outstanding athletes.

Coach Pete Hesmer's grapplers elected Charles Dorrier, of Scottsville, Va., as their leader.

Shields, Lott Enter Net Quarter-Finals

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Frank X. Shields, lanky young Davis Cup player, and George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, who returns to international competition this year, stole a march on the national indoor singles tennis championship field today, plowing through to the quarter-final round as the rest of the seeded singles players took time off to start play in the doubles championships on the board floor of the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Seeded in the lower half of the draw, they will meet Thursday for one of the semi-final berths, with Shields, in view of his spectacular play in the early rounds, highly favored to go on to the finals.

Shields, his service working with devastating power, swept John H. Pitman, of Yale, aside today 8—6, 6—1, scoring 20 clean aces as he did so.

OREGON RACING LEGAL.

INDIANA RELEASES 7 RUM VIOLATORS

Governor of Illinois Also Is Considering Freeing Liquor Offenders.

Indianapolis, March 14 (A.P.).—In accordance with the policy enunciated by Gov. Paul V. McNutt, seven men were released today from the Indiana Reformatory, where they were serving sentences for liquor law violations.

They represented the first group of a total of 325 prisoners, who will be given their freedom as a result of the Indiana "bone-dry" law being erased recently from the statute books.

The Wright act, one of the most stringent dry laws in the country, prohibited the prescribing of whisky for medicinal purposes and in other respects was much more drastic than the national liquor laws.

Gov. McNutt declared that to keep offenders of the State law incarcerated after its repeal would make political prisoners of them.

Springfield, Ill., March 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Horner said today he was considering granting executive clemency to those persons now in jail for violation of the State's liquor laws.

The governor yesterday signed the bills repealing the State prohibition act and the State search and seizure law.

Textile Strikers Halt Three Mills

1,000 Workers, Ordered Out by Band of 150, Obey Calmly.

Burlington, N. C., March 14 (A.P.).—More than 1,000 workers in three Burlington textile mills were forced to leave their jobs today when a band of 150 strikers and strike sympathizers went through the plants and ordered them to "clear out."

The men, about 60 of them workers in the dye and boarding rooms of the Standard Hosiery Mill, who walked out last Friday in protest against the discharge of three spokesmen on a previous strike, were well organized, but apparently had no particular leaders.

Traveling in automobiles, they drove up to the mills, walked in and ordered the operatives to quit work. There was no violence as the workers obeyed.

Ickes Is Studying Oil State Parley

Murray Says He Advised Secretary Conference Was Good Idea.

Oklahoma City, March 14 (A.P.).—Gov. William H. Murray revealed today Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes is considering calling a conference of governors of oil-producing States to consider conservation and regulation of production. The governor said Secretary Ickes asked him by telephone if such a conference would be advisable.

"I told him I thought it would be a good thing," said Murray, "that I couldn't attend but I would send a representative."

He added Secretary Ickes was primarily interested in California, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

Coast Oil Field Closing Is Urged

Earthquake Repairs Sought to Eliminate Fire Hazard.

Los Angeles, March 14 (A.P.).—Urgent recommendation that operations in Signal Hill Oil Field, just north of Long Beach, be closed down for such time as is necessary to repair earthquake damage and eliminate fire hazard was made today by State Oil Umpire J. R. Pemberton to Gov. James Rolph and Charles Henderson, earthquake rehabilitation "dictator" of Long Beach.

Pemberton also voiced the opinion that four other fields in the quake area probably should be closed. They are the Rosecrans, Dominguez, Seal Beach and Huntington Beach.

The February potential production for the five fields totaled 190,635 barrels daily.

Pomerene Assails Publicity on Loans

Almost Counteracted All Good R. F. C. Did, Is His Declaration.

Cleveland, March 14 (A.P.).—Bitter denunciation of the publication of the names of banks that obtained loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation came today from Atlee Pomerene, the Democrat who served as R. F. C. chairman the last seven months of the Hoover administration.

"It was the most damnable and vicious thing that was ever done," he said in an interview. "It almost counteracted all the good we had been able to do.

"The banks which got R. F. C. loans were good banks. The loans were amply secured, as the law required, requests for loans did not mean that applicant banks were unsound, but some silly persons construed them that way."

Oregon Governor Signs Racing Bill

Sales Tax Measure Also Is Given Approval by Meier at Salem.

Salem, Oreg., March 14 (A.P.).—A bill levying a 2 per cent general sales tax and another legalizing horse and dog racing were signed today by Gov. Julius L. Meier.

The sales tax bill, which will be referred to the voters July 21, provides for a general 2 per cent tax on all retail sales and a three-tenths per cent tax on manufacturers, wholesalers and publishers, abolishing the personal property tax.

The racing bill permits and regulates pari-mutuel betting and creates a State racing commission.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

THE Shetland pony is often thought of as merely a toy horse, but far from that the Shetland is valuable as a pack and draft animal. Weight for weight and inch for inch the Shetland is as good as any horse for work—even better under unfavorable conditions, such as bad weather and lack of forage. Under conditions that will make the ordinary horse nearly valueless for work, the Shetland proves his worth.

Shetlands are natives of the black Shetland Islands off the northern coast of Scotland. When bred in warmer climates and given plenty of good food succeeding generations become larger and larger. As size is one of the chief distinguishing characteristics of the Shetland none is eligible for registry if he stands more than 42 inches high at four years.

How many persons is or are a pair of Siamese twins? Some courts have held that twins with joined bodies are legally one person, others have ruled two. The Hilton sisters of Texas were denied the right to vote once because the election board ruled that only one person could go into the election booth at once—and as one could not go without the other, they could not vote.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TAKE BACK YOUR GOLD.
(An Old Song Brought Up to Date.)

I.

I saw a youth and maiden on a lonely city street
And thought them lovers at their meeting place,
Until as I drew near I heard the girl's sad voice entreat
The one who heeded not her tear-stained face:
"I only ask you, Jack, to do your duty, that is all,
And heed the warning of the Treasury;"
And when he said, "We shall not want, whatever may befall,"
She turned to him and slowly said, said she:

Chorus.

"Take back the gold! You're nothing but a hoarder!
Take back those bricks to Mister Woodin now;
We'll get along by taking in a boarder—
Take back that gold! . . . It scares me, anyhow!"

II.

He drew her close unto him, and to soothe her then he tried
By holding up the bullion for display;
And as he sought to comfort her, she wept and softly sighed:
"They'll print your name for doing this some day."
"Now, little one, don't cry," he said.
"Think what this gold will buy;
Forget those threats from Washington, my sweet!"
She turned upon him, and as he met the fire from her eye
These very words he heard the girl repeat:

Chorus.

"Take back your gold! I never can abide it!
Take back that gold! It's nothing we can keep;
Take back each bar! It's too much work to hide it—
While it's around I can not go to sleep."
P. S.—He put it back.

Mr. Ogden Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury, has been made a director of the National Biscuit Co. Possibly one of the first things Mr. Mills will urge for lifting public spirits will be the elimination of wolves from animal crackers.

The New York padlock squad, which has been closing so many hotels and speakeasies, has been disbanded. But we understand only speakeasies that are 100 per cent liquid will be allowed to reopen.

Rumrunner Escapes After Shots at Police

A suspected rum car escaped police early yesterday after a running gun fight and use of a smoke screen. Motorcycle Policemen J. R. LeFoe and G. W. Cook chased the car, following it several miles in the Northeast section.

Cornered at Neal place northeast, the suspected machine was suddenly turned around and driven toward the policemen. It struck an electric pole, tearing off a bumper and its occupants exchanged shots with the two policemen.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Automobile windows tightly closed to keep out the cold and wind place the driver and occupants in a hazard far worse than drafts.

Sedans with several passengers, among them children, all buzzing in conversation, distract the driver's attention, and when the windows of the vehicle are closed the driver is unable to hear the horn or siren of approaching cars. Many accidents are attributable to this cause.

The accident figures to date are:

Deaths	22	13
Injuries	725	710

BACK ROOSEVELT, TILSON PLEADS AT TRADE BOARD FETE

No Time for Petty Politics, He Declares; Count Russo Speaker.

Pledging support to the Roosevelt program, Former Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, former Republican floor leader, told several hundred members of the Washington Board of Trade at the Mayflower Hotel last night that it is the duty of every good citizen to place himself behind the administration in power.

"This is no time for petty politics," Mr. Tilson declared. "The best politics is to support the administration. If the objectives of the administration fail the Republicans will not be to blame."

To Practice Law Here.

He announced he would continue to live in Washington and would engage in the practice of law here. He described himself as "a game drake with two legs," referring to his decision last year not to run for re-election.

Considerable excitement was aroused at the meeting by the appearance of Count Ernesto Russo, who was introduced by Ben T. Webster, president of the Board of Trade, as "an international distinguished statesman and diplomat." Since the coming of Count Russo was first announced Washington society has been asking itself who he is, and city editors have been worrying themselves over his identity.

Proves Witty Speaker.

The Board of Trade members heard plenty of Count Russo last night. The count proved to be one of the wittiest speakers who has ever appeared before the organization. Eyes popped as they heard him tell jokes that one would hardly expect of a count—and an Italian one at that. Mouths gaped as he proceeded to tell the American business men what was wrong with their country. The extraordinary part of it was that he got away with it without being booed off the platform. But the audience was too close to hysterics to laugh.

Who is Count Russo?

Well, the Board of Trade and Count Russo himself made all promise not to tell. So that's that.

It can be reported, however, that the program was completed with singing by the Chevy Chase Chanters and a buffet supper.

Purchase of Park Land Is Approved

4.468 Acres Are Bought Near Kenilworth for Price of $1,675.

The purchase of 4.468 acres of land from the Pennsylvania Railroad for use as a park has been approved by the Secretary of War. The contract price is listed as $1,675.50.

The land is triangular and is situated near the Shaw Lily Ponds, on the west bank of the Anacostia River, about a mile below Magruder Bridge, in Kenilworth.

The District of Columbia appropriation act, approved in 1917, authorized the Secretary of War to acquire for highway and park purposes the title to land to be used in connection with the reclamation and development of the Anacostia River and flats.

Metal Firemen Stars Ordered for Economy

The familiar embroidered gold stars on firemen's coats, indicating length of service, are to be replaced by small metal stars as an economy move.

Upon recommendation of Fire Chief George S. Watson, the District Commissioners yesterday amended regulations so as to permit the purchase of the metal stars independent of uniforms.

BRINGS SEA CATCH BACK TO SMITHSONIAN

YACHT BRINGS BOAT OF MOLLUSKS HERE

Expedition of Dr. Bartsch Is Back After Catch in Puerto Rico.

An oyster boat de luxe dropped anchor in Washington harbor yesterday.

Disdaining the fish wharf, the ship was made fast on the Navy Yard dock where once the famous Mayflower had her berth.

That the ship was no ordinary oyster ketch could be seen by her lines, the white of her paint and the shine of her brass work.

And further proof that oysters were not her usual cargo was evident soon after she docked when white coated stewards hurried here and there with tea in iced and garnished glasses.

Mollusks and Oysters.

Now, of course, mollusks are not always oysters, but oysters are always mollusks, so to a degree it is proper to call the "Caroline"—that is her name—an oyster boat.

For the Caroline's cargo is mollusks—not ordinary ones, but rare and unknown kinds—which were dredged from the depths of West Indian waters.

She—the ship—just arrived from a great exploration of the Puerto Rico deep, laden with weird animal forms, many of which spend their lives hundreds of fathoms below the farthest penetration of light.

The expedition was sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution and Eldridge R. Johnson, of Philadelphia. It was under the direction of Dr. Paul Bartsch, curator of mollusks of the National Museum.

Collection for Study.

The entire collection of rare varieties of animal life was brought to the National Museum, where it will be studied by experts. Dr. Bartsch said yesterday it will contain species new to science.

The few shown at random from the collection were nightmare-like creatures with bodies adapted to the strange habitat of darkness and great pressure.

Most were luminous. Some literally "blew up" when they were brought up from the water pressure of the great depths to the surface, Dr. Bartsch said.

Deep is Mapped.

The expedition also mapped the bottom of the "deep," Dr. Bartsch explained. The greatest depth found was 4,400 fathoms, approximately 5 miles.

Yesterday afternoon, Dr. Bartsch, tanned brown by the West Indian sun, was host at a tea on the ship when scientists of the city were invited to view the collection and inspect the Caroline, owned by Mr. Johnson.

The Caroline is a great ocean-going yacht with lavish appointments well adapted for a two months' winter exploration in sunny waters.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Diana Wynyard.

BY another of those impetuous, last-minute changes of mind, and in contravention of the previous announcement that its next attraction would be the new screen version of "The White Sister," with Helen Hayes and Clark Gable, the booking powers now make known that the Palace Theater, beginning Friday, will present as its major feature, "Rasputin and the Empress," for the first time at popular prices.

Apart from the fact that it brings again to the local screen the only picture in which Ethel, Lionel and John Barrymore ever have been cast, this booking should be of especial interest to Washington picturegoers at just this time because of the opportunity to give further attention to a fast-growing screen personality which it affords.

It will be recalled by those who viewed "Rasputin and the Empress" upon the occasion of its road-show engagement at the Columbia, that among the foremost players in support of the "royal family" was Miss Diana Wynyard, a charming young English actress who first became known to Washington audiences in "The Devil Passes," with Basil Rathbone, Arthur Byron, Cecilia Loftus, Robert Lorraine and others of distinction on the stage at the National last season. By coincidence, it is at the National currently, in the Fox picturization of Noel Coward's "Cavalcade," that the latest manifestation of Miss Wynyard's growing stature as an artiste is to be apprehended.

While it was no doubt due in large measure to the fact that her role was one of comparatively slight demands in "Rasputin and the Empress," there was nothing in Miss Wynyard's work in that sumptuous film to indicate more than an average endowment of interpretative skill or the possession of any great dramatic or emotional power.

Quite the contrary is the case in "Cavalcade." As the wife and mother whose reactions to the bitter experiences of life epitomize the purposes of Mr. Coward's most serious bit of writing for the theater, Miss Wynyard reveals a latent power of surprising poignancy and depth. Her work is unmarred by mannerism, exaggeration or any of the extravagances that are so often condoned on the screen while vigorously reprehended on the stage.

Furthermore, her impersonation as Jane Marryot spans a third of a century. Like Norma Shearer, Miss Wynyard grows old charmingly, although perhaps with not quite such convincing evidences of the ravages of time as are betrayed by Clive Brook in the character of her husband, Robert.

At any rate, here is an artiste of such palpable ability, dignity and authentic charm that having her in two distinguished films simultaneously should be a source of gratification to any discriminating amusement seeker.

Tardily, perhaps, one finds, in looking over a day's accumulation of carefully typed bulletins, that Paramount Sound News slipped a fast one over on its competitors by having pictures of the California earthquake and fire disaster on the screen at the Earle Theater last Sunday afternoon. This, one guesses, was made possible by an intricate synchronization of transcontinental planes and a shrewd application of the theory of both the pony express and a large-scale relay race.

Digging down through the stack, it also turns up that the rare treat of genuine Andalusian dances, as executed by Victoria Barcelo, a favorite artiste of old Spain, is being offered in the new floor show at the Madrillon—along with Evelyn "Honey" Hayes, singer formerly with Georges Carpentier; Ted Holt and other high-voltage performers. It develops, too, that Senorita Barcelo's costumes, with their vivid decors, represent months of painstaking hand work.

H. R. H. Ben Bernie, the Old Maestro, is now more or less officially the King of Jazz, the coronation ceremonies having taken place in Station WRC last evening at 9, in the presence of a royal multitude that included the radio and dramatic editors of the local press.

Mr. Eddie Dowling, down from New York for that explicit purpose, pressed the diadem upon the royal brow and otherwise invested King Ben—not to be confused with Big Ben, the seven-alarm matutinal curse—with the powers and perquisites of sovereignty.

So from now on at the Earle, remember you are in the presence of The Crown. To be sure, it may have come off a bottle of Blue Ribbon, but it's still a crown!

To those who follow such things, it does not come as any sort of revelation that Frank Lloyd should have done so well with the direction of "Cavalcade." He established himself as a director capable of coping successfully with drama of large dimensions as long ago as "The Sea Hawk." First National's handsome picturization of the Sabatini novel, starring the late Milton Sills.

Reverting momentarily to "King Kong," the story of a giant gorilla untrussed by beauty, soon to be shown at RKO-Keith's, there is that about the story which seems definitely to refute Fire Chief Wynn's theory that nobody would care but another hippopotamus!

And where did you have your money, in a bank or in a conservator-y?

Eight bags of pennies totaling $30 were stolen yesterday afternoon from the truck of R. G. C. Stark, 1006 Webster street northwest, a collector for a chain of hamburger stands, while parked at 630 North Capitol street.

PEARSON SUSPENDED ON DRUNK CHARGES

Police Captain Expected to Face Trial Board on Next Wednesday.

Capt. Joseph W. Pearson, commander of the Second Police Precinct, was suspended yesterday by Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, assistant superintendent of police, after he is alleged to have been found in an intoxicated condition at his home, 43 T street northwest.

Capt. Pearson is reported to have taken sick leave Monday afternoon. Yesterday afternoon Inspector Edwards received an anonymous telephone call, saying that the captain was drunk at his home. With Inspector Thaddeus Bean and Dr. W. H. R. Brandenberg, Inspector Edwards went to the Pearson home to investigate.

Inspector Edwards took the captain's badge and service revolver, and immediately suspended him.

"There is no doubt in my mind as to his condition," Inspector Edwards said last night.

He also stated he would formally charge Capt. Pearson with intoxication, and that he would probably be brought before the Police Trial Board next Wednesday.

Quartet Under Arrest In Automobile Theft

Police were holding four colored men yesterday for an alleged attempt to steal an automobile and run over a policeman who fired six shots into the car in an attempt to stop them. One of the men suffered a minor bullet wound.

Policeman J. L. Magnus, of the Third Precinct, fired at the men, who he said were tampering with a parked auto at Ontario road and Lanier place northwest when they tried to run him down with the vehicle. One of the quartet was wounded and placed under arrest. The others were captured later.

SIDEWALK MARKET STANDS ALLOWED; PRECEDENT IS SET

Commission Changes Police Rules Over Protests of Maj. Gotwals.

Establishing a new precedent and over the objections of Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, and his aids, the District Commissioners yesterday amended police regulations so as to permit the erection of market stands on sidewalks adjacent to the Southwest Farmers' Market.

The ruling will permit the erection of sheds on the west side of Eleventh street, between Water and F streets southwest, and on the south side of F street, from Eleventh street westward, 100 feet. Instrumental in obtaining the modification was the Terminal Refrigerating & Warehouse Corporation, which played an important role in the location of the Farmers' Market in the Southwest.

"An Unusual Privilege."

Declaring that the applications were "requests for an unusual privilege," Maj. Gotwals said:

"It is intended to rent these sheds for a substantial amount and unless such construction is distinctly merited by the public needs should be denied. In this case, the location of the nearby Farmers' Market with the traffic condition that is bound to exist and the adoption of any policy of further extending retail markets in this vicinity gives a basis entirely unsound for the purpose of giving over public space for private gain."

Maj. P. A. Hodgson, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, in an exhaustive report, points out that establishment of the sidewalk sheds would be in violation of the building code and would involve a retail development which was not contemplated by Congress.

$10 Per Month Rental.

Said George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights, measure and markets:

"I know of no legal authority reposed in the Commissioners for granting a request of the kind indicated" in the applications.

Owners of property adjacent to the sidewalks in question will charge $10 rental a month over and above the fees assessed by the District government.

Steel sheds will be erected and the area will be apportioned in 8-foot spaces.
